Apportionment May Face New High Court Test

By GORDON G. GAUSS
DENVER (AP)—If Republicans insist that large counties must be divided into legislative districts in any reapportionment bill passed by the Colorado Legislature, the measure seems likely to be headed for another court test.

Democrats in the legislature—who have persistently opposed the districting of large counties—are predicting there will be a court struggle over any measure which includes districting. Nobody has yet said, however, who would file such a suit.

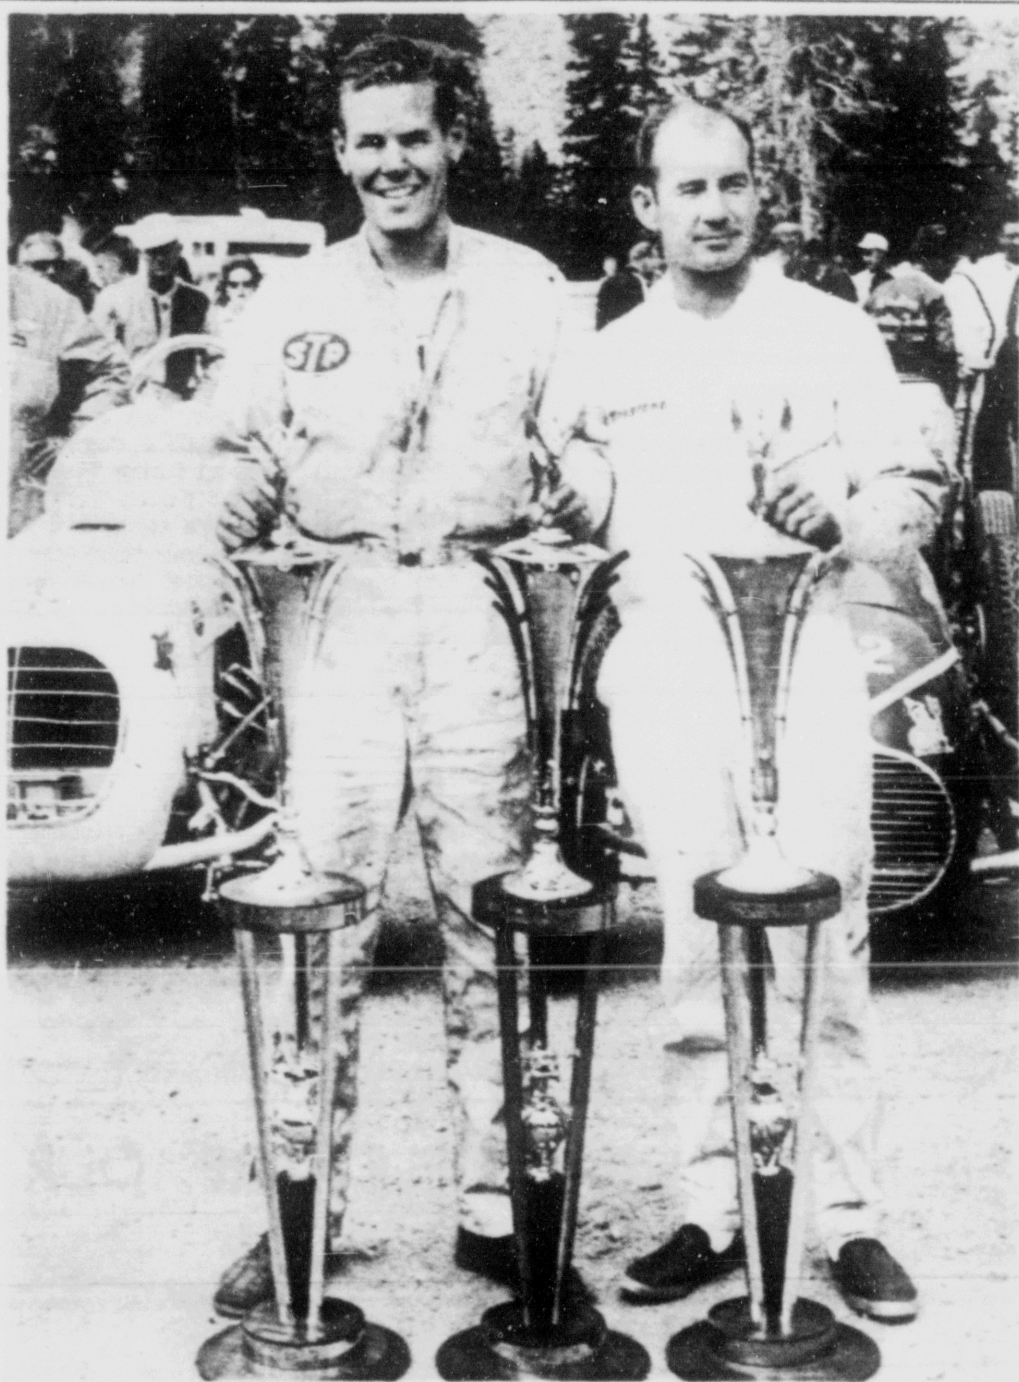

The Democrats voiced the opinion before the Colorado Senate took up the reapportionment bill at today's meeting of the special reapportionment session.

Republicans hold majorities in both the House of Representatives and Senate and apparently can force through districting provisions.

Sen. Ed Byrne, D-Denver, who is not seeking reelection, stated the Democratic position generally when he told reporters the only legal precedent for districting is contained in an oral ruling made Friday by a three-judge federal court in it. Circuit Judge Jean S. Breitenstein said he and U.S. Dist. Judge Alfred A. Aray agreed that districting of big counties is possible under the Colorado constitution despite a provision which says a county shall not be divided in creation of legislative districts.

Byrne said this is a completely new interpretation of the constitution. He noted that U.S. Dist. Judge William E. Doyle dissented from the view.

TIME TRIAL WINNERS—Bobby Unser (left) holds two trophies he won during the Pikes Peak Auto Hill Climb time trials Thursday morning while Parnelli Jones holds his stock car division trophy. Unser, seven-time Hill Climb championship kingpin, established a new time trial record in the sports division with a blistering 5:43.8 in a Lotus 23. Unser also turned in the best time in the championship division with a 5:27. Jones jammed his 1964 Mercury up the time trial route (from Crystal Creek to Glen Cove) in 6:00.1 to set a new stock car mark. The drivers return to the "Hill" Saturday to compete for a share of the nearly $25,000 in prize money for the July 4th running of the Hill Climb. Kaufman's May Sell to N. Y. Firm Goldring's Inc. of New York are negotiating for the acquisition of Kaufman's Inc., Colorado Springs specialty store, according to a report carried in Women's Wear Daily.

Morris Guberman, president of Kaufman's, confirmed today that Goldring's had "talked to us," but gave no other details.

Charles Weiss, Goldring's president, was quoted by Women's Wear Daily as saying he and Guberman had had talks, but added no new development or a deal was in the offing.

Kaufman's does an estimated volume in excess of $2 million, the New York paper said.

Senate to Take Action on Pay Increase Bill

by JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate completes action today on a $64-million federal pay raise bill after voting to retain in it a $7,500-a-year increase for each member of Congress.

The senators beat down three efforts Wednesday to strike out the increases for senators and representatives.

Senate passage will send the legislation back to the House for consideration of several changes—the Senate made in the original bill.

There is little likelihood, however, that the measure will reach President Johnson for signing before Congress recesses for the Republican National Convention, which begins July 13 in San Francisco.

The House is scheduled to begin its convention recess at the end of this week.

In the three key votes Wednesday, the Senate defeated 60 to 25 an amendment of Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., to knock out the $41-million in raises for the 100 sen.

House Votes Approval For Civil Rights Bill

By JOHN BECKLER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress finally completed action on the civil rights bill today as the House passed the historic measure and sent it to the White House to be signed into law.

House approval of the Senate-passed bill brought to an end a year-long legislative struggle conducted against a background of rising racial tensions.

President Johnson is expected to sign the bill quickly in hopes its bars against discrimination will help ease the pressure of civil rights demonstrations and countermeasures taken to oppose them.

Negro leaders have promised a quick test of some of the bill's provisions, and some Southern members of Congress have predicted the first results of its passage will be increased violence, not a lessening of it.

The House originally passed its own version of the bill last February, 290 to 130. In the Senate, Southerners battled the bill with a three-months debate but on June 19 the Senate finally passed it 72 to 27 in a revised form. That sent the bill back to the House.

There was talk at one time that the President would sign the bill with a big ceremony on July 4—Independence Day, but the White House decided instead on quick action.

Presidential press secretary George E. Reedy said that the Johnson conferred with House

Speaker John W. McCormack and other House officers and plans to sign it as soon as it gets down here. He said that it "looks like there will be a statement and ceremony early this evening."

Radio and television networks will be offered the opportunity for live coverage of the event, Reedy said.

In speaking of early evening, Reedy apparently meant the period beyond 6 p.m.

Union Is Guilty Of Discrimination; Stripped by NLRB

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Breaking historic ground, the National Labor Relations Board found a union guilty of racial discrimination today and stripped it of its certification.

In a broad opinion with possible national impact, the majority decision said whenever a union causes discrimination based on race it has committed an unfair labor practice.

The action—the first of its kind by the NLRB—was against the Independent Metal Workers Union, which maintained separate locals for white and Negro members at Hughes Tool Co. in Houston, Tex.

The case involved the complaint of a member of the Negro local whose application for an apprenticeship available only to white members was rejected by the union.

The five-member board's decision to revoke certification on grounds of illegal coercion was unanimous, although two members gave more limited reasons for their finding.

The minority said Congress

Aluminum Products Plant Scheduled for Springs Area

Construction will start next week on a building on the east side of the 2700 block of North Nevada Avenue, for Custom Aluminum Products Inc., which will manufacture aluminum building products.

V. R. Vesterby, president of the company, said the company plans to be in operation in less than 120 days and will begin manufacturing aluminum casement windows. Later, such items as patio doors, hand railings, and storm windows will be manufactured.

Vice president and secretary Dr. Eugene Buettner, a $42,500 loan for construction of the building was obtained from the Small Business Administration by C and S Development Co. Inc., of which Everett Conover is president. The loan is for 15 years.

Located on the building site is a service station which will be remodeled and incorporated into the new structure to be added to the east. The building will be of block construction, will be 160 feet long and 42 feet wide. It will have four offices and a reception room in addition to plant facilities.

Vesterby said the company will begin production with 18 employees.

Vesterby founded the Kaufman Window Corp. in 1964. The Kaufman company was merged with other companies in 1966 and became the Colorado Aluminum Corp., 501 Manitou Ave., Manitou Springs. He was president and general manager of Colorado Aluminum until 1961.

Dr. Buettner has been a practicing chiropractor here since 1954 and will continue his practice.

Vesterby developed the Calcut door, which became popular in the region. He said the new company will sell its products in Colorado, New Mexico, Nevada, Texas and Arizona.

Foreign Aid Bill Voted by House; Goes to Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has hailed House passage of a $3.3-billion foreign aid bill as a victory for American foreign policy and the American people.

Final House action on the measure came late Wednesday after Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., was defeated in his efforts to make further cuts in the total which already had been reduced $200 million from Johnson's original barebones request for $3.5 billion. The reduction was the smallest since the Korean War.

Johnson promptly issued a statement saying the House action was "in line with the best interests of America and the best interests of the Free World."

"I congratulate the members who backed a measure which was realistically and honestly conceived. This is an important victory for American foreign policy and that means for every American citizen."

Hewlett-Packard Slates September Plant Opening

Colorado Springs has met our expectations of being a nice place for our people to work and to live," George Fredrick, plant manager of the Hewlett-Packard division here, told Round Up Club members this morning.

He was referring to the company's $2 million oscilloscope plant now almost complete in the Pikes Peak Industrial Park.

"Our operation in Colorado Springs has shown continuous growth and it is planned to complete the move of the entire oscilloscope division from Palo Alto, Calif., to Colorado Springs by the first of the year," Fredrick said.

Curt Van Besselaer, oscilloscope division manager, will arrive in the Springs in the near future and will assume the plant management. Fredrick will take over the engineering division, it was announced.

Rensselaer, a native of California, joined Hewlett-Packard in 1948. Prior to becoming general manager of the Oscilloscope Division, he held positions of sales manager, assistant sales manager and development engineer with the firm.

Fredrick, speaking more or less off the cuff, enumerated about $5,000. No one was injured.

"We plan to move into our new plant in September of this year and will have a grand opening including an open house during the month," Fredrick said.

Fewer Colorado Jobs Available, Bureau Reports

DENVER (AP)—The Colorado Employment Department reports that there are not as many new jobs available in the state this year as there were in 1963.

The department, in a report, said that there were 7,000 new jobs in Colorado last month—far less than the normally expected seasonal gain.

"A rather disturbing note is that May is the fourth consecutive month in which the seasonally adjusted employment figure failed to match or exceed the previous month," the report said.

It noted that the chief cause of the downturn was a sharp cutoff in government hiring. There were 6,300 new government jobs in the first five months of last year. The increase this year was 2,500.

Government employment of 60,000 accounts for nearly one-third of all Colorado non farm employment.

The report said also that had a trend begun two years ago continued, there would be 20,400 more jobs in the state today than there actually are.

First Driving Lesson Causes $5,000 Damage

GARY, Ind. (AP)—Carol Jean Hinton's first driving lesson was the kind that gave instructors nightmares.

Police said Miss Hinton, 15, had lost control of the auto Wednesday, and here's what happened.

The car smashed into the James Graham home. Then it hit the garage. It hit a car inside the garage. The Graham car was knocked into the living room of the home.

There it hit a piano, wrecking it. The Grahams estimated damage at $5,000. No one was injured.

Manhunt Continues for Civil Rights Workers

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP)—Mississippi's biggest manhunt searched today for any clue to the baffling disappearance of three civil rights workers.

No hint of the fate of the trio has been uncovered by hundreds of men in a thorough manhunt through east-central Mississippi since the men vanished on the night of June 21.

Art Richardson, public information officer for the State Highway Patrol, said every lead was being pursued until investigators were satisfied with the information obtained.

Michael Schwerner, 24, and Andrew Goodman, 20, both of New York, and James Chaney, 22, a Meridian Negro, were last seen when they posted a $20 bond in Philadelphia after their arrest for speeding.

Sheriff Lawrence Rainey of Neshoba County said Wednesday that Deputy Cecil Price had told him that he had not actually followed the trio when they left the jail.

Previously, Price had said he escorted the trio to the city limits. The sheriff quoted Price as saying that he saw the station wagon drive away, but instead of following it he answered a city police call to check a report on drag racing.

The charred hulk of the station wagon was found June 23 about 12 miles from Philadelphia.

The search, which involved 400 sailors, was centered in Newton County, immediately south of Neshoba County. An FBI agent said every road had been searched in Neshoba County. Dragging operations were suspended but a door-to-door search continued.

The House is scheduled to begin its convention recess at the end of this week.

In the three key votes Wednesday, the Senate defeated 60 to 25 an amendment of Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., to knock out the $41-million in raises for the 100 sen.

Fireworks Are Banned in National Forests

The 16 National Forests and 7 National Grasslands of Colorado, Wyoming, Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota have been closed to the discharge of any kind of fireworks.

Regional Forester D. S. Nordwall, Denver, this week announced that Regulation T-L of the secretary of agriculture, was in effect. The regulation covers all kinds of fireworks on any United States lands within the National Forests and grasslands.

Fireworks constitute a major fire hazard in the forests and grasslands because smoldering bits of exploded charges often go unnoticed in grass and leaves.

The U.S. combat toll rose to 149 dead Wednesday when a Viet Cong sniper killed the pilot of a medical evacuation helicopter in the Mekong River delta 53 miles southwest of Saigon. The helicopter had picked up 3 wounded American and was taking off.

Three other Americans on board were injured when the helicopter veered out of control and overturned.

Viet Nam Convoy Is Destroyed by Red Guerrillas

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Viet Cong guerrillas ambushed and destroyed an army convoy in the jungles of the central highlands Wednesday, killing 29 government troops.

But the Vietnamese Defense Ministry also reported today that government forces killed 104 guerrillas in a mopping up operation a few miles north of the ambush.

The nine-truck convoy was hit along Route 19, where a whole French mobile brigade was wiped out in 1954.

The convoy was making its way with military supplies from the coastal city of Qui Nhon, 250 miles north of Saigon, to Pleiku in the interior.

The Viet Cong smashed the trucks with mines, then overran them. They gathered up a machine gun and 30 individual weapons before melting into the jungle.

The Defense Ministry said many government troops were wounded and five were missing. It said the Viet Cong lost three men.

In the operation in Kontum Province, 25 miles north of Pleiku, government troops found 59 Viet Cong bodies and captured considerable supplies of Communist weapons, the Defense Ministry said. The operation had been going on for some time and ended Wednesday.

Cyprus President Objects to U.S. Hand in Talks

By DAVID LANCASHIRE
NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—President Makarios opposes the participation of an American adviser in the United Nations effort to mediate the Cyprus dispute.

Makarios said Wednesday the appointment of an American to help U.N. Mediator Sakari Tuomioja would "include the danger of involvement of the issue in other circles outside the United Nations." He apparently meant the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The United States still fears a war between NATO members Greece and Turkey over Cyprus. It offered U.N. Secretary-General U Thant the services of a distinguished American—some informants said former Secretary of State Dean Acheson—to help the mediation effort.

Tuomioja has been unable to bring the two sides together. Greek Cypriot newspapers warned that an American adviser would involve NATO.

Makarios also said Wednesday he would not attend the Commonwealth prime ministers conference in London next week. He said the situation in Cyprus was too tense for him to leave for 10 days. But his boycott was considered a protest against renewed British support of the 1960 Cyprus independence agreements allowing Britain, Greece and Turkey to intervene on the island.

The Greek government denied Wednesday it had sent any officers or soldiers to Cyprus other than replacements for the 950-man Greek garrison.

A U.N. spokesman said, however, "certain movements and suspicious activities" by Greek and Turkish nationals indicated that weapons were being smuggled to the island. The Turks were doing most of the arms trafficking, he said.

For the first time since he arrived on Cyprus three weeks ago, Lt. Gen. George Grivas, the former anti-British Cypriot underground leader, conferred with a U.N. official.

Grivas, who is connected with the Greek defense department, told Gato Plaza, the special U.N. representative, he does not plan to take any official post in the Makarios government. It had been widely assumed he would be named commander of all Greek Cypriot forces.

He also said the Greek Cypriots would not resort to force unless they are provoked by either Turkey or the Turkish Cypriots.

The Turkish Cypriots criticized the U.N. official for meeting with Grivas. They said his presence on the island violated

Bright Future Predicted For Producers of Coal

ESTES PARK, Colo. (UPI)—An official of the Bureau of Mines today predicted a bright future for Rocky Mountain coal producers.

Frank C. Memmott, deputy director of the Interior Department's Bureau of Mines, said he based his prediction on an expanding Western power market and the coal industry's efforts to lower the cost of energy generated with its product.

Memmott was the main speaker at the 60th regular meeting of the Rocky Mountain Coal Institute, which opened Sunday. The meeting closes Wednesday. Mining industry leaders from Utah, Colorado, Wyoming, Arizona, New Mexico and other Western states are attending the conference.

Other featured speakers included the institute's incoming president, Claude Heiner, head of the Minerals Development Corp. of Salt Lake City, and James Drain, president of Joe Manufacturing Co. of Pittsburgh.

Memmott said that demand for bituminous coal has increased by some 50 million tons in the past two years and still is rising. He said fuel requirements of the nation's electric utilities had been forecast to total 495 million tons of coal equivalent in the next 15 years.

"This growth can be expected to expand coal's share of the market by at least 112 million tons," he said.

Memmott said that coal was very much on the minds of Western utility executives, noting that Arizona Public Service Co. now was operating two recently-completed coal-burning plants and that Nevada Power Co. had announced plans for building one at Moapa, north of Las Vegas.

"Prospects for extending further West into the large power market of California could be enhanced by the use of extra-high-voltage transmission from mine-mouth generating plants, use of the unit-train, and the coal slurry pipeline methods of transmission," Memmott said.

The federal official said that another challenging prospect for Western coal producers lies in the impending establishment of a large-scale saline water conversion industry and the energy demands that such an industry would create.

"A saline water conversion plant won't care where it's energy comes from," Memmott said. "It will be concerned primarily with cost, coal surely will have an opportunity to contribute to this important development, particularly if the present trend toward lower cost BTU's continues."

Memmott listed several federal programs that offer promise for the coal industry, including:—An intensive effort to stimulate foreign sales of both bituminous and anthracite that is already yielding results.

—A new carbonization process under development at the bureau's Denver laboratory.

Excise Tax Will Continue Another Year

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The 10 per cent excise taxes enacted during the Korean War will be continued for still another year, bringing the Treasury $1.9 billion in annual revenue.

After the Senate Tuesday night completed final congressional action on the legislation, President Johnson promptly signed the bill into law, extending the taxes for the 11th time. They had been scheduled to expire last midnight.

The legislation reenacts the levies on alcohol, tobacco, passenger autos and parts, telephone service and air travel. All the taxes involved were enacted or increased during the Korean War. They are part of the $14.7 billion excise structure passed during World War II and the Korean War.

The Senate action on a 73-10 vote, came only hours after the House rammed the bill through to beat the deadline.

A House-Senate conference committee Monday worked out a compromise which restored to the bill a number of items voted for exemption by the Senate earlier.

Memmott said the process is designed to convert Western coals into a char capable of substituting for relatively expensive low-volatile fuels now used for blending to produce metallurgical coke for Western steel plants.

Y's Men Club Delegate Sees First Snow Here

Wellesley Kerlew had to come all the way to Colorado to do it, but he finally got his first look at snow.

In Kerlew's homeland of Jamaica, West Indies, the soft white stuff that motorists use here cuss and skiers love just never puts in an appearance. It is a curiosity.

Kerlew, who arrived in this country June 19 to attend the International Y's Men Club conference in Estes Park, satisfied his curiosity three ways.

"I saw, I felt it and I tasted it," the agricultural extension officer said smiling. "I had a good look at snow."

The conference was held at Estes Park June 23-27, but Kerlew, with the assistance of the Y's Men Clubs will spend another three months in the United States and Canada.

"I was here for the first time 15 years ago. There are a great many changes in this country since that time," Kerlew said. "You have a wonderful set of people in this country. The conference was truly international. There was a great spirit and fellowship among the delegates," Kerlew said.

He said representatives from 25 countries throughout the world, including India, Greece, Sweden, Japan and Germany, attended the sessions.

"It was a wonderful experience for me. Now, thanks to the help of Y's Men Clubs, I will be able to see more of this country and some of Canada," Kerlew said.

This morning Kerlew was to tour some of the agricultural areas of the region and was scheduled to tour the Air Force Academy this afternoon. Wednesday, he was honored at a reception at the YMCA.

During the next three months, Kerlew will visit Y's Men Clubs in the U. S. and Canada. From here he will go to Wichita, Kan., then to Kansas City. From there his trip reads like a guide book: Illinois, Ontario, Canada, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York.

Prior to coming to Colorado Springs, Kerlew spent some time in Denver and Boulder. He is scheduled to leave the Region Sunday. While here, Kerlew will stay with the Jay Boutons at 1104 N. Institute St.

Colorado Apportionment May Face New Court Test

for Denver district judge this year—said he feels that only the Colorado Supreme Court can give a final answer to the meaning of the state constitution on the point.

No federal question is involved, he said.

Byrne noted that Chief Justice of the United States Earl Warren, in ruling Colorado's former apportionment system unconstitutional, did not hold that voting at large for legislators from big counties violates the constitution.

Also, the senator asked, would it be legal to district big counties so that each voter can vote only for one senator and one representative, then at the same time create "floterial" districts?

These are proposed for Boulder and Weld counties and for Adams and Arapahoe counties. Under the plan, Boulder and Weld counties each would elect one senator, then the combined counties would elect another senator. Adams and Arapahoe each would elect two senators—from districts—then the combined counties at large would elect a senator.

Young Thimble who skipped U.S. Sent to Prison

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Earl Belle, who gained fame as a youthful financier and later notoriety as a fugitive in Brazil, is behind prison bars today, pleaded with a 2½-year jail sentence.

The 32-year-old Pittsburgher, in a surprise move appeared in U.S. District Court Tuesday and pleaded guilty to 26 counts of fraud and record falsification. He also was fined $10,000.

Belle, charged with pocketing $875,000 in corporate funds, pleaded no defense to 18 other counts.

Judge Rabe F. Marsh quizzed the balding, nattily attired Belle about his guilty plea and then imposed the jail term and fine.

Marsh also gave Belle a suspended sentence and placed him on five years probation in connection with federal indictments returned against him in New Jersey. The probation is to start after completion of the jail term.

Before sentencing Belle, Marsh asked FBI agent Thomas J. Doody, "Do you know how much Belle went to Rio with?"

"I can only estimate," Doody said. "Between $100,000 and $120,000."

"How much did he come back with," the judge asked. Doody said, "I don't know."

"What assets does Belle have," asked Marsh.

"He never had any," Doody answered.

Belle won fame in financial circles as the architect of a financial empire headquartered in Pittsburgh. It included the Eastern Investment Development Corp., Cornucopia Gold Mine, Inc., and other firms.

With the enterprise, which the government said was founded on worthless paper, about to fold, Belle fled to South America in July 1958.

There he stayed for about five years while most of the firms went bankrupt and six men associated with Belle either pleaded guilty or were convicted of fraud. A bank in Edgewater, N.J., involved in the enterprise, also failed.

Belle was accused of taking $875,000 in missing accounts in the Cornucopia and Eastern Investment dealings.

One associate, Mitchell Ostwind, fled with Belle to Brazil but returned 10 months later to face trial and was convicted.

In Brazil Belle enjoyed a non-extradition sanctuary which has attracted several U.S. businessmen charged with financial wrongdoings.

Last winter Belle, dressed in summer clothing, returned to the United States, vowing his innocence and asking only to clear his name.

Brazilian authorities said Belle made a hasty departure rather than face charges of international check swindling in Brazil.

He was arraigned in this country and then freed on $50,000 bond.

Belle, dressed in a neat, dark blue suit and wearing dark glasses, showed up in court Tuesday with his attorney, Louis Glasco, and his parents.

"Someday I'm gonna ask old big-mouth to step outside and see whose clothes stay cleanest."

German President Re-elected to Term

BERLIN (UPI) — The West German electoral college today re-elected President Heinrich Lübke to a second five-year term in the face of Soviet threats of possible "undesirable consequences."

The electoral college, called the "federal assembly," met here despite a Russian denunciation of West Berlin as the meeting place.

Lübke, a 69-year-old Christian Democrat, was the choice of his own party and the opposition Social Democrats. His re-election had been certain.

He won on the first ballot, getting 710 votes, an absolute majority.

His only opponent, Justice Minister Ewald Bucher, a Free Democrat, got 123 votes.

Four ballots were invalid, 187 delegates abstained, and another 18 did not show up.

The electoral college has a total of 1,042 delegates from West Germany.

Plans are shaping up favorably for the first Hobby and Crafts Fair and sale to be held at the historic Florissant schoolhouse July 24, 25 and 26. Lunch will be served by the Grange ladies. This is similar to the shows which are held at War Eagle, Ark. and Higbee, Colo.

The public is invited to come and visit, buy or sell, and anyone in the region may reserve a booth to display and sell all types of native handicrafts and native arts. Booths may be reserved by writing to Mrs. Marie Monroe of Florissant who is the sponsor.

Sympathy is extended to Truman Hightower whose mother, Mrs. Ina Hightower died last week in Colorado Springs. Services were held last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Soren Kollerup and family of Michigan have been visiting here and are interested in purchasing a summer home. They are the former owners of the ranches now owned by the Ernest Outcrops.

Mr. and Mrs. Wylie Barr and Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Barr report a pleasant fishing trip to Buena Vista last week.

Mrs. Chet Burns is recovering satisfactorily following surgery at Memorial Hospital. Chet's mother is assisting at the home during her illness.

June, a month of weather extremes included a heavy frost Monday night, among its insults!

Sheriff Joe Huest of Fairplay was here one day last week investigating a theft at a camp in this area.

The Help U Club held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Carl Reick, June 25. A chicken dinner was served to eighteen members and one guest, Mrs. Wayne Snare. "Happy Birthday" was sung to Mrs. Leigh Reeves and Mrs. Ben Garver. "The Thing" was won by Mrs. Nate Snare. An Elgin wrist watch to be given as a benefit project was displayed. The forthcoming "Hobby and Crafts Fair" was discussed. Home extension programs were outlined and committees were named to send selected schedules into the county agents. The next meeting will be July 9 at the home of Mrs. Harry Spencer.

Mrs. Jack Rodgers has joined the ranks of proud grandmothers, with her first grandchild, a boy being born to her daughter and husband, the Bainbridges of Denver. The Rodgers have as their houseguest Jack's grandson of Peru, Neb.

Among summer residents welcomed back are Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Gregg of Austin, Tex. Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Benatti of Fountain, Mrs. Crane and children of Pennsylvania, and the Bantleons of Kansas. Mrs. Mabel Cline of Denver and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Parker of Wyoming, are also visiting here.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

No Safeguard in Law

We have a letter from Richard Niesz, who expresses amazement over our lack of enthusiasm for that portion of Article I, Section 9 in our Constitution which states: "No capitation or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration herein before directed to be taken."

What we were trying to point out in our editorial, "What the Constitution Says," related to what it says TODAY and not what it said when it was originally drafted. In fact, in the paragraph following the one Mr. Niesz targets, we say "Thus, as things stand today, there is no restraint at all on the Congress in its ability to tax and to collect."

Mr. Niesz should examine Article I, Section 8 once more. In the first paragraph of that section, Congress is granted an unlimited power to tax.

It is also granted the power to collect duties, imposts and excises with the single limitation that they be uniform. But the taxing power has no limitation imposed whatever. This is followed, in the second instance, by a grant of unlimited power to borrow money on the credit of the United States.

Now, in Section 9, the Congress is required to abstain from a head tax, or other direct tax, "except in proportion to the census or enumeration herein before directed to be taken." This does not limit the power to tax set down in Section 8. It merely prohibits a graduated or progressive tax of a direct nature. The congressional power to tax is still unlimited.

Legalists have contended in various court battles that Section 8 and Section 9 were contradictory. Section 8 sets forth unlimited power to tax. Section 9 admonishes that a direct tax can only be collected in uniform terms. That is, the head tax is to be classed with imposts, duties and excises. Congress is not forbidden to collect such taxes.

It is required to collect them in a uniform manner. Of course, the argument given in support of these assurances is that no government would ever be so foolish as to raise the taxes to the place where the people would simply refuse to comply. Therefore it is presumed that this enormous grant of total power was not supposed to be invoked except in time of emergency. But experience has shown that emergencies can be put on a rather permanent base. And it has also shown us that the government is not at all

Prejudging

Prejudice in any area is negative. But this does not mean that we should ban dislike of evil. It does mean, however, that before we form a value judgment we should examine the facts. Prejudice is nothing but pre-judgment before the facts are known.

Investigation of Meat Costs

There have been quite a few claims about exorbitant prices of food products, and particularly about the apparent great spread between the price the farmer is paid and the price the consumer is charged. Congress is about to investigate how the food industry buys and prices its products.

The publication Farm Journal figured the government probe "will drag on for months or years." So Farm Journal decided to do some investigating on its own. In its June issue, the magazine carried the results of a study on a specific steer, which was followed from the feed lot to a retail market. The article written by Ovid Bay of the magazine's western field staff, certainly makes interesting reading and should dispel any claims of huge profits by processors and marketers.

It's an interesting study of the free-enterprise system at work, and should be required reading for all those who would adopt some sort of government intervention as a substitute for the independent judgment of people.

Mr. Bay followed a specific

The Local Scene

The Ravaged Hills

By RUFUS L. PORTER

The earth lies desolate for miles around.

The ravaged hills stand blackened, bleak and bare. A burning match, a lighted cigarette—

Or someone's campfire only half put out.

Has taken toll of all the lovely trees.

The sunlight slants across their charred remains.

And finds no living thing to nourish there.

The soil, for now, is barren as the moon.

And many years must pass before it stands again in woodland beauty as before.

The awful fire had raged across its breast.

And left this scene to shame us for our faults.

When we grow careless in the woods with fire.

The ravaged hills do penance for our sins.

The above poem is a sonnet written in blank verse. It is usual to rhyme a sonnet, which is a strictly stylized lyric.

It must be written in fourteen lines and in iambic pentameter (five metrical feet to the line). There are only two types of sonnets, which have different rhyme schemes: the Italian (Petrarchan) and the Elizabethan (Shakespearean).

However, a few better poets than myself have written sonnets in blank verse, so I decided to give it a try. I was wracking my brains for some idea to try it on when a bad forest fire occurred in one of my favorite outdoor haunts. The result was "The Ravaged Hills." I hope you like it.

Men have many virtues and I am inclined to the theory that their virtues, over the long haul, outweigh their vices by about two to one. But there are times when I rail against their vices as though I had forgotten they possess any virtues at all, which, for the time being, is probably true. And one of those times is when some careless or particular beef brought $301.11, having been sold 30 per cent at regular prices, and 70 per cent at "sale" prices. Kroger thus lost $10.33 on that particular beef. Had the company sold 50 per cent of the meat at regular prices and 50 per cent at "sale" prices, it would have had a return of $322.38 or a profit of $10.94 on the carcass.

The writer goes into wage costs, all along the way which have increased the cost of the handlers. For instance in the Omaha packing house, wages and fringes have increased 276 per cent in 15 years — or from $1.02 an hour to $3.84 an hour.

In the particular market where the beef was sold, wages and fringes in 15 years had jumped from $1.27 to $4 an hour.

His conclusion was that the chief beneficiary of the complicated transaction was the consumer and that the principal victim of the present depressed beef prices was the farmer.

But, the article certainly should lay to rest any claims of profiteering by those who serve as processors and sellers.

reckless person has "accidentally" set fire, in one of many ways available to him, in the woods and burned off a section of timber that even with all the help man can give her, it takes nature 50 to 100 years to replace.

Careless or reckless (often the two are indistinguishable) behavior in timbered or grassy areas has cost us untold billions in economic losses. And no one could put a price on the beauty, the glory, the grandeur thus destroyed. But the loss of their homes to the wild things is one of the greatest tragedies of a great forest fire.

According to statistics, more timber is lost yearly in fires set by natural causes, lightning being the main one, than by fires set by man. But this is not something to boast of. There is simply NO excuse for fires being set by man at all, especially since the railroads cut using coal to fire their locomotives. Hot cinders used to be one of the main causes of man-made forest fires. But, having eliminated this one worst cause, our man-made fires continue to increase.

In spite of Smokey the Bear and all other warnings, in spite of cajolery, pleading and threats, many of us still toss burning matches and a lighted cigar or cigarette carelessly aside—or go off without making sure, dead sure, that our campfire is thoroughly doused and buried. Careless? Well, maybe. But reckless seems to fit such performances better.

A person who drives a few hundred or a few thousand miles to breathe our mountain air, to smell the lovely scent of spruce or pine, to enjoy campily in a beautiful mountain glen and then manages to somehow set fire to the place just after he has left it, is selfish, reckless, careless and most inconsiderate of others who have looked forward, perhaps for years, to enjoying the sylvan retreat whose scenic beauty he has destroyed.

Sometimes he is out of the state and may never know that he was responsible for setting the world on fire. But, even if he does know, he will probably visit another wooded spot in another state another year and unless he has changed his ways, he is liable to set another fire.

I do not believe that more laws and stricter enforcement with graver punishment are the answer to the problem. It is a matter for education. This education should begin in the home with the parents setting an example to the youngsters on how matches, snokes and campfires should be handled, with many good sermons on acts of carelessness or recklessness thrown in for good measure.

Punishment, by way of retaliation, does not replace reforestation. Carelessness, thoughtlessness, and recklessness we will have always with us, but they can be reduced to a minimum by proper training. There is nothing more desolate looking than a burned-over area. Among the other losses due to fires, I forgot to mention the loss of human lives, which runs to a goodly number yearly. Let's all help to keep Colorado and America green — not with dollar bills, but with common sense.

Question Box

Question No. 532: Does the satisfaction gained by relinquishing a certain amount of material value in voluntary exchange for a certain amount of psychic value qualify as a form of property?

In the interest of clarity, this true example is offered: A friend, a young army captain with a growing family, resigned his commission and accepted a non-governmental position at a much reduced rate of monetary pay. His reasons for so doing: "Believing as I do, I could do no less. You see, my actions were guided by the lie to my words. That is no longer true. And besides, I am now doing what I really want to do." The pupil becomes the teacher!

Obviously this man gained in the exchange, else he would not have acted. He exchanged one state of affairs for another more to his liking at a reduction in salary. His profit, it would seem, can only be called "satisfaction." So, again the question. Is this profit, this satisfaction gained, a form of property? If so, can its boundaries be defined so all it would be plain to one and all just where ownership begins and ends?

CWO CECIL V. GROVE, W214246 Adj. Gen. Div. Hq. US Army, Europe APO 403, New York, N.Y.

Answer: To qualify as property, certain attributes must appear. Value is one of them. That which is to be owned and which will become property when it is owned, must have a value. This is not sufficient, by itself; there must also be clearly definable boundaries. And the property must be subject to some measure of control expressed by the owner. The nature and degree of the control may be dictated by the character of the property (control over property cannot contravene the nature of the property) but some measure of control is definitely a factor.

We would suspect, in the illustration provided, that the subject army captain exchanged certain property for a kind of satisfaction (money) could not buy. Is this satisfaction property? That would depend on whether or not a boundary can be discovered. Also, it would depend on whether or not control can be exercised over that satisfaction by the captain. Clearly, the value of the exchange is already established. It would be up to the army captain to let us know whether he views his new satisfaction as a property or not. As, with an idea, the boundaries, if they exist at all, are known only to the owner of the idea. Also, the measure of control is known only by the individual having the idea; in this case, the satisfaction.

But a satisfaction CAN be a kind of property, if the listed requirements are met. In which case it would become an act of trespass to deprive the man of this satisfaction against his will.

Robert Kennedy's Rubicon

WASHINGTON — Attorney General Robert Kennedy is facing his most fateful political Rubicon.

On his return from Europe, "Bobby" must decide whether to accept a new career within the Johnson administration or continue his backstage preparations to force his way on the Democratic national ticket.

This unpublicized fork in his political road was reached by Kennedy when President Johnson offered him a chance to continue his government service in either a high-level defense or diplomatic post — depending upon his own choice.

While these private Johnson-Kennedy discussions still are inconclusive, a preconcerted decision by Kennedy is being forced by a White House-supported move by Ambassador Adlai Stevenson to go after the Democratic senatorial nomination in New York.

Twice the unsuccessful Democratic presidential standard-bearer, Stevenson is now telling political intimates that he plans to leave his post as U.S. ambassador to the U.N. to try to unseat GOP Senator Kenneth Keating.

Stevenson's still - to - be - announced return to the political wars will touch off a game of musical chairs within the administration, clearing the way for President Johnson to appoint Kennedy to one of at least two cabinet-level positions.

According to administration insiders, the President's discussions with the attorney general centered around his possible appointment either to Stevenson's post or as secretary of defense, although other positions were mentioned.

The consensus was that if Kennedy wanted the Pentagon post, Defense Secretary McNamara would be shifted to the State Department, replacing Secretary Rusk, who would go to the U.N. If Kennedy decided on the U.N. post, Rusk's shift would be delayed several months.

President Johnson's proposal, which could solve his "Kennedy problem" for several years, is being sugar-coated with "leaks" from the White House that the relationship between the President and the attorney general has "considerably improved in recent weeks."

These stories, which also have met with approval at the Justice Department, have prevented a potentially explosive split in the Democratic party from breaking out into the open prior to the national convention opening in Atlantic City on August 24.

While Kennedy ponders the President's "peace" offer, both his supporters and those of the White House are continuing their guerrilla warfare to strengthen their positions for a possible convention confrontation.

In the Midwest political jungles, President Johnson has taken the offensive in Wisconsin by selecting Senator Gaylord Nelson as campaign coordinator for that state.

This politically astute move, while not decisive in controlling the state's delegation, is a definite slap at Governor John Reynolds who is working undercover to line up the Democratic governors to support an "open contest" for the vice presidential nomination.

This maneuvering for a "free-for-all contest" goes to the heart of Kennedy's strategy to ignite a "draft" at the convention for an American battle force.

his nomination as Johnson's running mate.

The fact that Kennedy still has not called a halt to these maneuvers is the best indication that the Rubicon is still to be crossed.

FACING THE FUTURE

The Kennedy family tragedies are having their impact on the young attorney general.

Friends say those morose newspaper pictures of "Bobby" are due in part to his "fretting" over the possibility that he may be the next target of an assassin.

When his automobile was struck from behind in a minor collision here recently, Kennedy took cover on the floor of his chauffeur-driven limousine in the belief that an attempt was being made on his life, according to a witness at the scene of the accident.

One of the occupants of the other car involved found Kennedy lying on the floor of his limousine with his briefcase protecting his head. Kennedy's big dog was still sitting on the seat.

POLITICAL FALLOUT

President Johnson and Attorney General Kennedy are trying to outdo each other in courting the support of Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers. Since January the President has phoned the powerful labor leader 36 times. Kennedy has either met with or called Reuther 42 times.

Senator Margaret Chase Smith, Me., has indicated that she definitely plans to have her name put in nomination at the Republican convention in San Francisco. Although Mrs. Smith has less than a dozen delegates, she will be nominated by Senator George Aiken, Vt.

President Johnson has ordered his ghost-writers to quit talking about the speeches they work on. The crackdown followed a statement by Horace Busby, a presidential aide, that he was responsible for one of Johnson's recent speeches.

Other Johnson ghost-writers include Bill Moyers, Richard Goodwin and Douglas Cater. Others will be brought into the administration before the forthcoming presidential campaign.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee is investigating the use of U.S. aid funds in Formosa to furnish that government with birth-control information while at the same time spending money for studies on how to increase the population on the island. There appears to be a conflict of policy . . . U.S. intelligence agents are gathering information on all diseases of epidemic proportions in Communist China. Request for this data came from the State Department's Policy Planning Council, which is preparing recommendations on the type of aid the U.S. should extend the Peking government if and when it recognizes that Communist regime.

IMPORTANT CLAUSE

To the Editor:

I was quite amazed at your editorial, "What the Constitution Says," wherein you perfunctorily dismissed, as a minor limitation, the clause "no capitation, or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration herein before directed to be taken."

In my opinion, that is probably the most important clause in the entire Constitution for maintaining a free republic.

I would say it was put in there for the obvious reason of preventing the Congress from destroying the nation through taxation. With everyone sharing the burden equally, it would be a rare Congress that would load too much on all of the people, as they wouldn't hold office very long.

Chief Justice John Marshall rendered an opinion that was respected by respectable men for over 100 years, to wit, "Any legislation passed by the Congress that violates the Constitution is illegal." When the XVIIth Amendment was passed, it obviously violated that minor clause, and every man voting for it breached his oath of office to "defend the Constitution," a practice that seems to be in vogue more and more.

It seems to me that was the point of the entire charter or contract: defending the minority against the unjust will of the majority. There will always be people who break contracts, but without redress for the injured party, contracts would be superfluous. What could be more ludicrous than our present attempt to pass another amendment (Liberty) to nullify a previous one that is illegal? Past Supreme Courts have twice declared the graduated income tax illegal. Dishonorable men never stop trying and as long as honorable men tolerate them we will have politicians who promote anarchy to satisfy their ambitions — a condition we have today. Have I been suffering under a delusion that the main spark for the American Revolution was unjust taxation?

Incidentally, I like all of your editorials. They are penetrating and factual. If my thinking is wrong on the above I certainly want to know where, as I have lived quite a number of years with that philosophy.

To the Editor:

A Colorado Springs minister has just sent us the editorial section of your May 27, 1964, issue.

We want to express our admiration for your summarization of our Mission's "duel with the Internal Revenue Service." Especially appreciated is your patriotic conscience so clearly revealed in this statement: "So deeply ingrained in our mores is respect and devotion to the state that even overt acts of injustice perpetrated by men in power are likely to induce fear and acquiescence."

The Texas director of the I.R.S. still carries on his personal vendetta against our Mission and its officers, but now his tactics have become intolerable as he threatens to destroy our choice relations down here with Mexican government officials and business leaders.

Sir, you may be interested to know the origin of our Mission's name. Years ago, our little plane was the first one ever seen by villagers in the remote regions of Old Mexico. And when it dropped Gospel portions (whole books of Luke, John, Acts, and Romans) the Mexicans said they had received a message "Correo Aereo de Dios" (Air Mail-From God!).

Since the Holy Scriptures are from God and it is delivered air mail, we believe that after careful thought, you, too, will decide the name chosen is neither audacious nor unlikely. And as for "efficacy" no newspaperman dares underestimate the power of the printed word, especially when that is the Word of God.

LEARNED A LOT

To the Editor:

My letter is in regard to the editorial that you printed about my letter which was published June 25. I commend you for your editorial but I must state that I have no blind adulation for the Constitution. I fully realize it has flaws in it. Also I must state that the letter was meant for the reader in general, not the editor. When I write a letter, I write it to the people. I suppose I should have emphasized this but I never dreamed it would be taken that way.

I simply stated my beliefs. I stated it how the preamble to the Constitution was supposed to mean, not to its outcome in our present day society. I commend you again for your fine editorial, but don't jump to the conclusion on my idealism. My letter may have seemed like blind praise, but it wasn't meant that way. By the way, I learned a lot!

FORCED TRANSFUSION

To the Editor:

Over the past fifty years, the collectivists have been quite successful in incorporating into law the altruistic ethic, the concept that man has no right to live for his own sake, but instead exists for the benefit of others.

This perverted "philosophy" was advanced one step further this past week with the news story of a New Jersey Jehovah Witness who was forced, by the state, to submit to blood transfusion in order to save her life (Turn to Page A9, Column 1) and that of her unborn child. This case involves much more than simply the question of the health of the child. For in the act of forcing a woman to submit to medical treatment against her own will, the state of New Jersey has declared that the body of this woman is no longer hers, to do with as she will; rather it is considered the property of the state, and when this woman doesn't take proper care of the state's property, the state will step in and take action.

Those who are rightly concerned with the spread of international communism need not always look toward the Soviet Union. For in the consistent application of the altruistic ethic, as in this case, lies the impetus for our own mad rush toward the totalitarian state in which the individual is regarded as only a chattel of the state, to be done with and to as suits the whims of a Big Brother bureaucracy.

MOTIVES

To the Editor:
With the Civil Rights Bill before Congress and awaiting signature, there occurs to me many situations which law in itself can never solve. We can talk about the White Problem, the Negro Problem or any other racial group, and yet we do not get to the heart of the situation. No condition is any more important than the thinking which surrounds it and the attitudes, both physical and mental, which man takes to gain ends.

A case in point is the demonstration, based upon the Gandhian principle of peaceful non-resistance. One can only surmise that the interpretation of the demonstration when held will bring different satisfactions to those involved. From the beginning, prayer has been used as a tool. One group marched a hundred steps, knelt and prayed for five seconds, and then went on. A clergyman in St. Louis has wondered whether it is more important to be seen by men or to be heard by God.

In public or in private prayer it is hard to keep mixed motives from getting between us and God.

LEGERDEMAIN
To the Editor:
And now, it seems, the Washington whiz boys are taking up the art of legerdemain. They're turning reality into myth, and myth into reality.

One of these (peeking out from under his umbrella) coyly says that we're wrong in thinking the Soviet - Cuban danger a reality - it's just a myth, more or less.
Conversely, another, picking up the Utopian-myth by the ears, says, a couple o' shakes and this myth will be reality - let's have no more poverty. And, for good measure, some "curbstone quarterquacks" on the Potomac side lines, are even suggesting a fat monthly check of living-wage proportion, for everyone, job or no job. In other words, Utopia is just around the corner.

The book, "The Phrase Finder" (Rodele Press) says: "Utopian is from More's Utopia. Utopian is now used to suggest a state so perfect that it is either non-existent or impossible. The name itself is derived from the Greek for nowhere." When we see a stage magician pull a live rabbit out of an empty hat, we well know that it is an illusion. But are we smart enough to evaluate this "government magic" like-wise? Or rather, do we believe important than the thinking which surrounds it and the attitudes, both physical and mental, which man takes to gain ends.

Let's walk out on this show of legerdemain.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES

To the Editor:
Have you ever wondered where your tax dollars go? It seems that one fellow who earned enough that he paid $1,619 income tax, upon some research, discovered the following facts:

He had contributed to the following:
$25 to encourage farmers to grow wheat;
$17 toward storage bins to hold surplus wheat;
$45 to farmers for NOT growing wheat;
$1,350 to defense projects to fight communism;
$85 for jet planes for communist Yugoslavia;
$8 to the Voice of America program to tell the world how our welfare state has overcome poverty;

$35 to help feed the 36 million families who go to bed hungry every night;
$25 for the new aquarium in Washington;
$6 for a gold bed for the empress of Ghana;
$2 for suits for Turkish undertakers;
$13 for research into the love life of monkeys, etc.
Well, at least they are not saving it and keeping it out of circulation.

DISTURBANCE

To the Editor:
This is with reference to that terrific noise made by the low Jets over the city recently. If this is necessary, I will say no more. But if it is not necessary, it has caused trouble to thousands or more sick people in hospitals and homes.

Undoubtedly it is not welcome by thousands of people not sick.

THEN AND NOW

To the Editor:
The old-fashioned ideas and the well-made articles were much stronger and lasted longer. Buildings and cars stood in many kinds of weather.

Everything made these days is too cheap with an expensive price tag. Yester years we got something for our money. Even dry cereals in boxes are all "package" and not much in them. Clothing doesn't last. This goes for everything else on today's frontier market.

HOW MUCH AND WHERE

To the Editor:
It seems to me that we should keep track of how much and where our money is being spent by our elected congressmen, and how each man voted on these (many of them) give-away projects. We are in the hands of a President that persuades and bribes a majority of Congress to support his pet programs regardless of the cost to our treasury and the increase of our national debt.

No. 1. On January 20, 1964, the Senate passed S 2214 giving the IDA an additional 312 million of our tax dollars, for them to give or loan to foreign countries, and when you loan to them it usually winds up as a gift. IDA means International Development Association. On May 13, the House voted to pass the bill. All four of our House members voted yes. Our two senators voted no. For once there goes our 312 million dollars.

No. 2. Foreign Aid Appropriation: On December 16, 1963, the House passed HR 9499 providing three billion for foreign aid. There goes $3,000,000,000. Count em. Both our senators voted for this one. Chenoweth voted against it, and the other three voted for it. This was an enormous amount, and only Chenoweth tried to save our hides.

No. 3. The Inter-American Development Bank lends (also gives) American tax money to governments and private businesses in Latin America. On August 19, 1963 the House passed HR 7406, contributing an additional $461,760,000. The Senate passed the bill on January 14. There goes another $461,760,000 of our good money that we do not have but have to add it to our tremendous debt. Both our senators voted to give away all this money. Aspinall was absent, the other three voted for this robbery.

No. 4. March 4, 1964, the House voted to increase the funds of the unconstitutional Peace Corps, from 95 million to 115 million dollars during fiscal 1965. Chenoweth was absent, the other three voted for the increase. Another $115,000,000 gone with the wind.

No. 5. HR 1922, Food Stamp Program, actually "provided" $400,000,000 for the purchase of food from private businesses, for distribution by the bureaucracy. Aspinall and Rogers were for it and Chenoweth and Brozman were against it. To produce votes in a small area there goes another $400,000,000 tax dollars.

To add these figures I find that the total expenditures of these five items amount to four billion, two hundred eighty-eight million, seven hundred and sixty thousand dollars, and it all goes for foreign aid, except the last item.
None of these items are included in the hundred billion that was estimated by the President in his annual budget, and he is striving for much more. Think of the generosity of a President who is willing to give about 500 employees a raise in salary of $750 per annum when they do not work for him, and the money does not belong to him. What can he mean by such actions? He cannot buy more patriotism by more money, as he will find if he looks into the Baker case with whom he was in such very, very close association for so long, without knowing anything was wrong with Bobbie's business. I bet he knew more than he will ever tell. Any man who will favor a raise in salary, with our present national debt, is to say the least, no patriot. God give us men, a time like this demands men and women with minds, souls and patriotism.

FRANK S. WELSH
1820 W. Bijou

P.S. Since I wrote the above, I read that while the Senate was getting attention of the public by the Civil Rights bill, our patriotic House has passed a bill to raise all salaries by $7,500 a year, beginning January 1, 1965. It will include all judges, Supreme Court, postmaster general, and cabinet officers. If enacted it will increase our pay for poor management by $375 million annually. At November election everyone that voted for that should be defeated, from the President who pushed for it to the smallest member. It is an attempted robbery, and conspiracy to commit robbery, two crimes in one.

Favorable Wheat Crop Reported in Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Foreign Agricultural Service reported today that the area sown to spring wheat in the Soviet Union is 4 per cent below that of the preceding two years, but 4 per cent above the government's goal.

Spring wheat constitutes more than 70 per cent of the Soviet's total wheat acreage.
The service said information indicates that abundant rains in most areas of the Soviet wheat-producing region have favored growth of crops.

Ex-Dallas Mayor Tells Of Death Threat Calls

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Former Dallas Mayor Earle Cabell and his wife Wednesday disclosed a story of death threats which prompted constant police protection for two months after President Kennedy was shot.
The police guard began Nov. 24, the day accused assassin Lee Harvey Oswald was shot by Jack Ruby.

The police protection ended Jan. 21 several weeks after the threatening calls ceased.

Ike's Brother Is Delegate to GOP Convention

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, brother of the former president, has been given a seat on the Maryland delegation to the Republican National Convention.

When asked by newsmen if he would make the nominating speech for Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, Eisenhower replied: "I would certainly give it consideration, but 'I haven't been asked'."

In Eugene, Ore., where Scranton is campaigning for delegates, aides also said Eisenhower has not been asked to nominate the Pennsylvanian.

Eisenhower, 65, a staunch Scranton backer, was placed on the delegation after a series of your being seated do not stem from any efforts on my part."

One delegate and an alternate resigned to make it possible for the Johns Hopkins University president to take a place with 19 other state GOP delegates, nine of whom are announced for Scranton.

The six committed backers of front-running Sen. Barry Goldwater had said they would block the move, but withdrew their opposition at Goldwater's request.

The Arizona Republican sent Eisenhower a telegram assuring him that "any objections to Miss Marie Ann Bowen, 16, daughter of Sgt. 1 C. and Mrs. Rex Bowen, 223 N. Walnut St., will reign as Queen of Fountain Valley.

She was a junior last year at Fountain-Ft. Carson High School and has been runner-up for the titles of Miss Ft. Carson, Ft. Carson Teen Club Valentine Queen and Queen of the Hot Rod Ball in Manitou Springs. She is a member of the National Honor Society at school.

Her aides will be Miss Josephine Guzman, Security, and Miss Tomma Brizendine, Fountain.

The Queen and her aides will participate in the annual Fountain Valley Day celebration July 11, at Security and Fountain. A dance, talent contest, barbecue and gymkhana are scheduled.

The Gymkhana, under the supervision of Clarence Shemwell, manager of Dutch's Liquors in Security to be a part of the Fountain Valley Days Celebration, will be held in Fountain's Town Park beginning at 1 p.m.

Scheduled are five events, each having a junior and senior division. These are Pole Bending, Stake Race, 75-yard Up and Back Race, Barrel Race and Flag Race.

High point winner of each division will receive a trophy with ribbons going to 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th place winners in each event.

Anyone wishing to enter the gymkhana is requested to contact Shemwell at 392-5949.

Youngsters up to age 13 are eligible to enter this contest. It is emphasized that fancy dress will not count. Entries will be judged on practical working cowboy and cowgirl outfits.

Winners of the two divisions will be awarded a belt buckle, with 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 5th places receiving a ribbon. All youngsters in the area are urged to come out and take part in the competition.

Both the Gymkhana and Dress-Up Contest are sponsored by the Fountain Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Murderer's Appeal Rejected by Court

DENVER (AP) —The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals rejected Tuesday an appeal by Vernon Sides, 37, serving a life sentence for the murder of a Boulder policeman in 1958.

The court ruled that Sides had not exhausted his legal efforts in state courts.

Sides contended his constitutional rights had been infringed in that he was denied a free transcript of his trial. He also said detectives obtained information for the case against him by pressing an area where a bullet was lodged in his head while questioning him.

Sides and his brother, Revilo, were convicted in 1959 of the shooting of Patrolman Raymond McMaster at a roadblock.

Most Burgers American Made, Survey Shows

WASHINGTON (AP)—Despite increased imports of beef for manufactured meat products and hamburger, the latter beef item continues to be mostly American in origin, the U. S. Tariff Commission reports.

A study of beef imports and their impact on U. S. cattle prices said hamburger is the principal outlet for imported boneless beef.

But the commission said the bulk of the hamburger consumed in the United States is made from parts of domestic carcasses not salable as steaks or roasts. It said hamburger is also made by mixing trimmings from domestic beef of choice grade with lean grass-fed beef which the retailer purchases expressly for grinding.

Major products made from imported beef, the report said, include frankfurters, sausages, bologna, luncheon meats and soups.

Farm Product Prices Pulled Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Johnson administration's new wheat stabilization program has exerted its first big influence on farm product prices by helping to pull them down 1.3 per cent between mid-May and mid-June to the lowest level for the month since 1946.

An Agriculture Department price report said that grower prices of wheat dropped from an average of $1.88 a bushel in mid-May to $1.40 in mid-June. This decline reflected a slash in wheat price supports from $1.82 for last year's crop to $1.30 for this year's production, under the new program.

But this decline in farm price level does not indicate, the department said, a drop in farm income.

Auto Industry Strike Would Affect Steel

NEW YORK (AP)—Any major interruption in auto production would smudge prospects for a record year in steel, a trade publication said Tuesday.

The Iron Age, metalworking weekly, commented on the wage bargaining being begun this week by the Big Three automakers and the United Auto workers. Existing pacts expire Aug. 31.

The magazine said widespread or prolonged stoppages that might result from an impasse in negotiations would shut off the steel industry's second best market, behind construction.

Last year, auto manufacturers bought just under 25 per cent of all mill products sold by steel producers.

The Iron Age observed that this year automakers have held to a blistering pace, using steel at an accelerated rate. Their appetite for steel has largely accounted for steel record hopes.

The magazine, sizing up the auto bargaining outlook, said, "an industry-wide or even a company-wide strike is not expected. But neither is a peaceful settlement."

"The stumbling block will be at the local level of individual plants where work rules and production standards are at issue. In some cases, a strike at a single, key plant would cause other production and assembly facilities to shutdown in short order," the Iron Age said.

Steel companies note some early concern on the part of automakers. Indications are that orders for August tonnage could top July, which would then be the year's low point.

But there is some reluctance by auto companies to continue to place orders 45 days ahead.

TOO MANY NUTMEGS
LONDON (UPI)—Dr. J. H. Rees, writing in the magazine "The Practitioner," said Wednesday he treated a woman who became "drunk" on nutmegs and developed an addiction for them.

The woman sought medical help, he said, after the nutmegs disturbed her concentration and brought on laughing and crying jags.

RFK Says He Will Quit; May Live Abroad
LONDON (UPI) — Atty. Gen.
Robert F. Kennedy said
Wednesday he will resign from President Johnson's Cabinet after the November elections and may live abroad for a year but still has not made up his mind on his future plans.
Kennedy spoke to newsmen during a two-hour stopover

in London on the way home from a visit to Poland and West Germany with his wife, Ethel, and their three oldest children.
Kennedy side-stepped when asked whether he would be a Democratic party candidate for the vice presidency, although he indicated he believed Johnson would be elected.
"I haven't made up my mind
what I shall do in November when the presidential elections take place, or afterwards," he said.
"I am not going to stay on as attorney general. I was appointed by President Kennedy, and it seems to me that President Johnson himself would like to start out with new people appointed by himself."
As for reports that he would like to live outside the United States, Kennedy said:
"I would never live permanently in another country. I am interested in government service. After November I don't know what my plans will be. I have thought about taking my family abroad for at least a year or so."

He said England was one country he has considered.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Timmy's grandfather is a smart child psychologist but his father and mother are "slacker" parents. Send for the Frank Rating Scales below and face up to reality for "Bad children usually have bad parents." Many of you
"slacker" parents are thus accessories to your child's later criminality.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE T-410: Timmy R., aged 4, is a smart "only" child.
"But, Dr. Crane," his grandfather informed me, "I am fearful lest Timmy grow up to be a criminal."

"And do you know why? Well, his parents haven't given him any baby brothers or sisters, so he is spoiled."

"So he thinks every toy or plaything he sees belongs to him, for he has never been schooled in 'my' vs. 'your,' as would be true if he had younger siblings."

"For example, when we were out for a walk, he saw a tricycle on the front lawn of a house down the block."

"Immediately, Timmy ran over and started to ride it home."

But I had to forcibly take him off that tricycle.

"And though I tried to teach him that this tricycle belonged to some other little boy or girl,
Timmy was hostile toward me."

"Dr. Crane, how can such children even be taught property rights?"

COMMUNISTIC CHILDREN

Timmy's grandfather is a smart child psychologist. For if Timmy had several brothers and sisters, he would be forcibly taught the differences between the possessive pronouns
"my" vs. "your."

His indulgent parents are thus largely to blame for the fact that Timmy may grow up with little sense of property rights.

Far too many youngsters in America, even of supposedly patriotic families, have this juvenile or communistic outlook.

For communism is a form of juvenileity. It represents the toddler concept that "anything
I see that I want, I can take."

Fences thus are a capitalistic sign. For communists are still immature as regards private ownership.

Actually, thieves in America are a first cousin to communists, for both groups have little respect for property rights of those who work to produce the desirable objects in life.

Thieves (and communists)
thus should be forced to wear diapers in public as a symbol of their juvenility or infantile outlook.

For one of the first evidences of a maturing human personality is his recognition that fences represent private ownership.

And "conscience" simply refers to inner moral "fences" that have been developed in our brain.

For conscience simply refers to those moral habits that have been erected, much like external fences, in the brain of mature human beings.

So the proper place to combat both communism, as well as thievery, is obviously in early childhood!

But too many immature par-look on their own child as an animated "toy" to entertain the parents and inflate the latter's ego.

Instead, a child is simply lent to parents by God Almighty for a brief period of time in which its parents are supposed to teach it to be self-reliant and a responsible moral adult.

Scout leaders and school teachers are thus shouldering an unfair load imposed on them by "slacker" parents, who shun their own parental obligations.

So send for my 200 point
"Rating Scale for Good Parents," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.
Use them for monthly self-analysis.

Or, if your children are of reading age, let your youngsters rate you — if you dare!

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

He was unemployed at the time, he said, but had intended to repay Crocker, an acquaintance, when Laviolette received his check for his income tax refund. State Democrats to Have 23 Votes in Convention

By GLENN URBAN
Gazette-Telegraph
Political Writer

Colorado will have a delegation of 63 with 23 votes in the National Democratic Convention scheduled to open Aug. 24 in Atlantic City's Convention Hall.

The process of picking people to cast those votes began last Saturday when El Paso County Democrats named 63 delegates and 63 alternates to the state convention scheduled for July 18 in Denver.

El Paso's 63 delegates will join with delegates from the 62 other counties in the state to select Colorado's 40 delegates, 21 alternates and the national committee man and woman who will make up the delegation to the national meeting.

The 40 delegates and their alternates will have a total of 21 votes, which may be cast by half votes — thus it requires two delegates to cast one vote. The other two votes, which are complete votes by themselves, are those of the two national committee officers.

In the Democratic party, each national committee man and woman has an automatic vote within his delegation. Each state is entitled to two national committee officers — one man and one woman.

The Democratic party will have 2,944 delegates, 2,208 alternates, and 108 national committee members, none for Guam, for a total delegation strength of 5,260, and a total convention vote of 2,316.

While the delegates to the Colorado Convention will pick the delegates to the national, actually the people will cast 12 of the votes at the national will have been picked before the state get-together.

Each of the Congressional Districts recommends to the state convention six delegates and three alternates, who will have three votes in Atlantic City.

These people, while selected at the district conventions, are not officially named until they have been so designated by the state convention.

In theory, the state convention would not have to accept those picked in the district meetings, but it is customary to accept the recommendations.

Another party function the state Democrats will take care of the day they meet in Denver is the holding of conventions and assemblies for the judicial districts.

El Paso county is in the Fourth Judicial District with Lincoln and Kit Carson counties to the east and Teller County to the west. The district is subdivided into east and west districts, with Kit Carson and Lincoln forming the eastern section.

With the reorganization of the state's judicial operation, the Fourth Judicial District received two new judgeships, and judges to fill those two posts have to be elected this fall.

El Paso county named the same delegates for the Fourth Judicial District as for the state convention assembly.

Meeting for judicial district business, these delegates will choose the judge nominees and then return to their duties at the state convention.

This is the list of the 63 delegates to the state convention and Fourth Judicial District convention:

Ramrods See Parade Float Drawings

Drawings of some of the 23 floats which will appear in the 1964 Pikes Peak or Bust Rodeo parade were shown to members of the Ramrod Committee this morning at a breakfast at the Acacia Hotel.

Special guests at the meeting included Jan Phelps, Girl of the West, and her aides, Cathy Heyse and Laurel McLeod.

Also present were representatives of the official greeters committee of the Colorado State State Fair.

The parade, the route for which is being worked out, will also include at least nine bands and groups from various riding clubs in the region. All local branches of the military, 4-H clubs, the Pikes Peak Cowbells, and other similar organizations have entered floats in the parade.

Bands include a Navy group from Los Angeles, Calif., and the Air Force Academy Band.

The annual Rodeo - Retail luncheon will be held Monday at the Antlers Hotel. Featured will be the Las Vegas Rhythmettes who have helped promote the rodeo in previous years.

The Rhythmettes will come through Colorado Springs en route home from an appearance at the New York World's Fair.

The luncheon will be dutch treat and reservations may be made at the Chamber of Commerce office. Tickets will be held at the door. The Quarterback Club will make this luncheon their weekly meeting.

Ramrods were reminded of two other dates, the Pikes Peak Range Riders breakfast early on the morning of July 15 and the pep party on July 23.

About 65 members of the Ramrod committee and their guests attended this morning's meeting.

Local Dog Wins In Wyo. Show

Mrs. Erwin L. Turner, 1009 Jupiter Dr., showed her English bulldog Turner's Replica O'Dreadnought, better known as "Tuffy," in the Central, Wyo., Kennel Club Dog Show at Casper June 14, where he took best of breed. He won the necessary final point there to make him 15 points in five shows to finish his championship. Because he was finished too late for confirmation from the American Kennel Club prior to the Colorado Springs show he did not compete for honors at Ft. Carson Sunday, June 21.

Tuffy won the five point show in Denver this year at the National Bulldog Specialty of America, winning over 44 male bulldogs and so is now a champ.

'Pain Killer' Brings Man To City Court

A man with a pain in the neck thought he'd "drink it away" and wound up in Municipal Court Wednesday charged with drunkenness.

Joe Martinez, 41, of 1811 W. Sheldon Ave., told Judge Allan Asher he sought the ancient pain killer after his neck began to trouble him while he was working in his yard. "Next time take some aspirin or see a doctor," advised the judge, fining Martinez $25.

In other cases before the court Wednesday, Robert Joseph Fields, 28, of Ft. Carson was fined $100 for reckless driving. The judge also suspended Fields' right to drive for 90 days, dismissing charges of drunkenness and careless driving against the defendant.

The judge fined Roy Flores, 33, of Austin, Tex., $25 for drunkenness and imposed a 10-day jail sentence for a charge of vagrancy against the defendant. Herbert Bogardus, 53, of El Paso Rooms, was fined $25 for drunkenness with $15 of the fine suspended.

Two men were found guilty of careless driving and fined $15 each. They were Daniel Turner, 30, of 1003 E. 2nd St., and Ronald Fox, 25, of Security. An injury to city property charge against Turner was continued until July 15. Fox, who pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding, received a $15 fine which the judge suspended. Attorney Alfred Cox defended Fox.

James Gephord, 36, of Pueblo forfeited a $15 bond on a speeding charge when he failed to appear in court.

The cases of Max Gallegos, 20, of 219 N. Wahsatch Ave., and Wilbur Padilla, 20, of 2145 12th St., were continued until July 6. Gallegos is charged with riotous conduct, breach of the peace, and drunkenness. Padilla faces the same charges.

Petitions Set Park Election At Security

Four petitions with the signatures of 63 registered taxpayers were accepted Wednesday night by the Security Park and Recreation District to hold an election to enlarge boundaries of the park system.

Signatures were collected in the Widefield area by parents in a door-to-door campaign. The park board set a hearing to accept written objections to the petition for 7:30 p.m. Aug. 1 in the park office, 805 Main St. An election date is expected to be set at that meeting. The election could be 20 to 30 days after the hearing.

An election June 18 to include Widefield and outlying areas in the park district ended in a 47 to 47 vote. It was accepted by the park board as "not being a majority in favor of inclusion."

Signatures on the petitions, those of about 45 per cent of the eligible voters in the area proposed for inclusion, were gathered by Lt. Col. Adams (ret.), 131 Ithaca St., Clifford V. Bowland, 109 Widefield Blvd., Mrs. William Hamilton, 132 Bradley Rd., and Mrs. Dorothy Carroll, 108 Grinnell St.

Park Superintendent Paul Morris announced that non-resident fees were being enforced. He said a schedule of the new fees would be mailed to participants in the summer recreation program who do not live in the district.

Non-resident fees were adopted June 23 at a special board meeting.

Drivers Warned Of Dangers During Holiday

"Despite all the warnings, if American motorists are as irresponsible as they were last year during the Fourth of July holiday, they will cost the nation some 500 lives, 25,000 injuries and a property loss of approximately $100 million," Attorney General Duke W. Dunbar, chairman, Colorado Highway Safety Council, pointed out today.

"Last year during the Fourth of July holiday U.S. motorists smashed their way to an estimated economic loss of $126 million," Dunbar stated.

"Drivers who display an irresponsible and independent attitude on the road do not belong on the highway this Fourth of July holiday or any other time. It is this type of driver we usually see following too closely, making unsignaled moves, suddenly changing lanes and traveling too fast."

"Speed too fast for conditions was a factor in half of last year's Independence Day accidents."

Casualty Figures Soar in Wake of Manila Typhoon

By HENRY HARTZENBUSCH
MANILA (AP) — Casualty figures from Typhoon Winnie soared today as reports of death and destruction from one of the worst storms ever to smash through Manila started trickling in from stricken areas.

The Philippine News Service and local newspapers reported 40 dead although the Red Cross listed only 11 fatalities. The Red Cross reported 275 injured and 376,897 homeless in cities and provinces of central Luzon Island hit by the typhoon.

Manila declared a state of calamity and began clearing rubble and debris. The city of two million still was without electric power and water 36 hours after the typhoon roared in from the Pacific with winds up to 90 miles an hour Monday night.

Public transportation was restored this morning. City streets were choked with cars and buses.

Most offices and stores reopened and most employees appeared for work.

The Manila International Airport reopened to traffic after a 36-hour suspension.

The Philippine navy said the destroyer escort Rajah Soliman capsized and sank at the Mariñel shipyard in Bataan Province just across Manila Bay.

The Swedish freighter Nordvind got away from shallow waters off Manila's Dewey Boulevard but two other small freighters were still aground, waiting for a higher tide.

All Philippine armed forces personnel were placed on the alert to help typhoon victims and maintain order.

Government agencies began sending medical and rescue teams to stricken provincial areas, but relief work was greatly hampered by the continuing disruption in communications and Manila's power blackout.

The typhoon passed south of the big U.S. Clark Air Force Base, 45 miles north of Manila, but hit the U.S. Navy's Sangley Point Air Station across the bay from Manila. A Navy spokesman said there were no casualties. Aircraft were either lashed securely or flown to safer areas.

The Manila Weather Bureau said the typhoon, still packing 95-mile winds, was churning across the South China Sea toward the Chinese mainland.

British Bookies Clobbered in $28 Million Coup

LONDON (AP)—British bookmakers have been clobbered by a skillfully executed betting coup that may cost them several million dollars.

A group of more than 50 tough-looking men manipulated wagering on a race at the Dagenham greyhound track near London Tuesday, forcing odds up on three of six dogs entered while off-track accomplices piled money on what turned out to be the winning ticket.

The coup, which one bookmaker said "makes the great train robbery look like chicken feed," could result in losses up to 10 million pounds—$28 million—for London betting parlors.

The bookies declared all bets on the race void but the Sporting Life, Britain's racing bible, reported the decision to withhold payment was a mere formality. "They simply didn't have that much money," the publication said.

Ralph Gough, general manager of the dog track, said he believed the coup was legal. Police indicated it would be up to the bookies to prove fraud to avoid paying off and added, "Our investigations have shown there is no need for further inquiries."

The betting syndicate went in action shortly before the 4:30 race at Dagenham. They tied up the 31 mutual windows until the race started, placing bets on three dogs they apparently knew couldn't win and sending the odds sky rocketing on the other three dogs in the race.

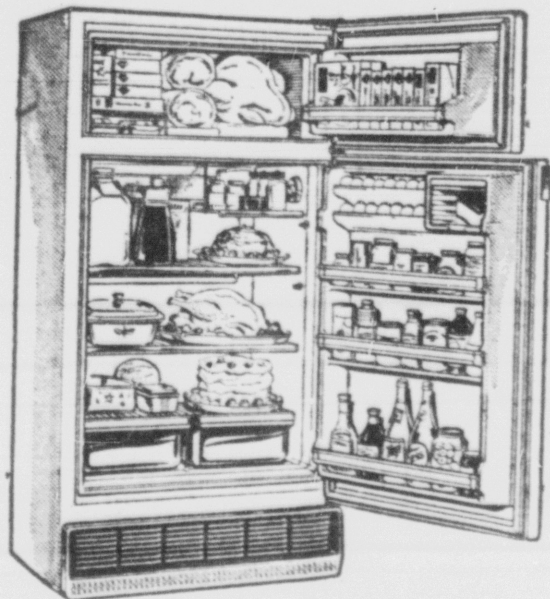

Other members of the ring bet the combination of Buckwheat and Handsome Lass at shops throughout London.

Buckwheat won the race and Handsome Lass finished second, at odds which had been inflated tremendously by wagering on the also-rans at the track.

Two London operators reported they stood to lose $1,120,000. Two others said their losing figures ran to $846,000 and $560,000.

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: While cleaning closets the other day, I started to discard my husband's wide, out-of-style neckties. Instead, I decided to make neckties for our three small boys.

I measured the proper length for little boys' ties, cut off the wide end of the tie and rehemmed the rest.

The original narrow end now becomes the top side of the tie. And don't throw away the wide part you cut off... those little make-believe handkerchiefs you see in boys' suit pockets can be made from the point of the wide end to match their ties. E. Robinson

Dear Heloise:

My solution to the problem of keeping frozen foods frozen after grocery shopping is a plastic picnic cooler. I always keep our cooler in the car. It is very lightweight and cost less than three dollars.

It is easy to have the checker at the store put the meats, frozen items, butter, etc. in one bag and with no fuss this can be put in your cooler.

Now I never worry if I am delayed on the return journey. — C. H.

That's a marvelous idea! — Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Your tip recently about using cuphooks for hanging up small items, gave me an idea for our many toothbrushes.

Our laminated wall discouraged the use of hooks, so I got a chrome tie rack which only needed two screws to hold it.

I partially straightened the rounded ends of the hooks on the tie rack and hung up the brushes neat as you please. —Jo Greenwell

Dear Heloise:

Summer camp time is upon us so I'd like to pass along a few tips that I picked up when I tried to go to camp.

First of all, "never" send good luggage. It'll never come back the same way!

If they'll be cooking outdoors some of the time and have a mess kit, paint their name on the handles with nail polish. Then make a bag out of two dishcloths sewn together on three sides, with a drawstring of twine at the top. The dishes can be put inside the bag and hung in their cabins or tents until the next meal without worries of where to put them.

Make a complete list of everything you send and tape it inside the top of the suitcase. When they pack to come home they can see exactly what they have and make sure they bring home everything. We hope!

Other necessities: shampoo in a plastic container, shower soap on a cord so it can be hung around the neck, insect repellent and a lotion for possible sunburn, hand cream for chapped skin. Also include a few clothespins. And warm pajamas and sweaters are a must for chilly nights.

Most camps send a list of the things to bring, which is a big help, but I'm sending my suggestions along anyway, knowing from experience that these things come in handy. —Jonelle Blair

Dear Heloise:

When wishing to give a semblance of fragrance to artificial flowers.

Take a ball of cotton and put a drop or two of your favorite cologne or perfume on it. Place this in the center of the artificial bouquet and this will cause the bouquet to emit a pleasant fragrance.

Example: one could use gardenia perfume for artificial gardenias. —Marianne Perry

Dear Heloise:

Small children cannot readily tell the front from the back of many garments when they are learning to dress themselves.

I sewed a small piece of colored bias tape on the "inside" front of pants, T-shirts, etc. I explained that the tab went next to their skin, and in front. Now, no more running to mother to find out which goes where. — Ruby Ream

What's New

United Press International A portable, plastic replica of a regulation pitching mound helps to train amateur or professional hurlers. Constructed of durable, non-corrosive plastic, the unit includes special calibrated markings to help correct stance and delivery techniques. The manufacturer says it gives pitchers the natural feel of the mound and can be used indoors or out. On a hard indoor surface, the mound creates its own suction to adhere firmly. —(Porta-Mound, P.O. Box 144, Upland, Calif.)

Two new safety devices for the bathtub should have special appeal in aiding the elderly and the convalescent. One is a white enamel - finish steel tub seat with adjustable vinyl grip-pads on each end. The other is a chrome plated adjustable tub rail which is secured by rubber-covered clamps. —Reed Cromer Corp., 15757 Euclid Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.)

New pre-moistened cotton pads in aluminum foil envelopes simplify the chore of removing fingernail polish. The manufacturer reports one pad removes polish from 10 nails.

Music lovers can now keep their favorite records within easy reach with a new attractive brass - plated pole for records. Each record pole has a set of three extending racks, large enough to hold standard albums and to allow room so that they can be slipped easily in and out of the racks. —Snyder Manufacturing Co., Philadelphia, Pa.)

Opening lead: Queen of ♠ South's opening two spade bid in today's hand meets with the approval of this department. He has a reasonable expectation of winning nine tricks in his own hand. In terms of points his hand is worth 23 which is sufficient holding a good six card suit. North did not have enough to make a positive response despite his good trump support but he raised South to game on the next round.

West opened the queen of hearts which was ducked by all hands. He continued with the jack which was also permitted to hold, and declarer ruffed the third round with the deuce of spades. Trumps were drawn with two pulls and South cashed his high clubs. The dummy was entered with the jack of spades so that declarer could make a diamond play.

East had carefully observed South's stripping operation in clubs and, when the diamond was led from the North hand, he realized that a passive course might well prove fatal to the defense. If, for example, he plays the three of diamonds, declarer covers with the nine—forcing West to win with the king and—the latter is now endplayed. Any return he makes gives South a trick.

When the diamond was led from the dummy, East put up the queen. Inasmuch as South had no reentry to the dummy to lead diamonds, a second time, he permitted East to win the trick. When a diamond came back, he played the jack—hoping that East started with both the king and queen; however, West produced the king of diamonds for the setting trick.

East's play in diamonds was a brilliant stroke for, if he follows with either the three or the ten, the contract cannot be defeated. South, however, might have nullified his opponent's efforts had he not been so careless in maintaining communication with the North hand. The deuce of spades was a potential delayed entry to the dummy which declarer thoughtlessly used up at trick three.

If he ruffs the third round of hearts with the nine of spades, he can gain access to the North hand twice, with both the jack and seven of trumps. When East plays the queen of diamonds, South covers with the ace and leads his carefully preserved deuce of spades to dummy to make another diamond play. When East follows the second time with the three, declarer can make the contract if he plays East for the ten of diamonds and put in the nine from his hand.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Reflection and Happiness

DEAR READERS: Today is a very special day for me. It is my 25th wedding anniversary, and I have this to say: I was reared in a home with a mother and father who really loved each other, so I know what love is.

I have seen both a son, and a daughter safely through the trials of their tempestuous teens. So I know what satisfaction is.

I have had by my side for 25 years the gentlest, kindest, most considerate human being I have ever known, so I know what happiness is.

I have prayed And my prayers have been answered, so I know what faith is.

And because I have known all these things, I know what wealth is.

Truly yours,
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A new family moved into our neighborhood, so I called on them and made them feel welcome. I told them if they had children the ages of mine to send them over to play.

I have three boys, 4, 7 and 8. Well, they have two girls, 11 and 16, who are no company at all for mine. Their 11-year-old started coming to my house every day, pretending to "play" with my 8-year-old boy, but all she does is follow ME around and ask me questions until I think I will go out of my mind! Abby, I don't need an 11-year-old girl friend. She is at my door every time I turn around, and she never goes home until I suggest it. How can I get rid of this little pest?

—FRAZZLED NERVES

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a tea for the wife of a United States Senator. When I arrived I was told (not asked) by one of the guests to take my hat off because the guest of honor was not wearing one. I did not remove my hat because I felt that it was my affair if I chose to wear a hat. I noticed that about two-thirds of the women at the tea were hatless.

I felt that the woman who told me to remove my hat was rude, and I am certain that she felt he can gain access to the North hand twice, with both the jack and seven of trumps. When East plays the queen of diamonds, South covers with the ace and leads his carefully preserved deuce of spades to dummy to make another diamond play. When East follows the second time with the three, declarer can make the contract if he plays East for the ten of diamonds and put in the nine from his hand.

Eisenhower Son Denies Report By Broadcasters

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's son, John, has denied a report carried by the National Broadcasting Co. that his father would nominate Gov. William W. Scranton for president at the Republican convention.

"It's not true," said John Eisenhower Wednesday night at his home in Gettysburg, Pa. He said that with him were his father and mother, celebrating their 48th wedding anniversary.

Pennsylvania's Gov. Scranton, asked about the report, said in Eugene, Ore., "Not that I know of."

NBC's first report quoted "sources close to Gen. Eisenhower." Later, on a schedule newscast, NBC said, "NBC News has learned that in his 45-minute conversation with Gen. Eisenhower in Walter Reed Hospital yesterday, Tuesday, Henry Cabot Lodge suggested that Mr. Eisenhower put the name of Gov. Scranton in nomination. Sources close to Gov. Scranton have told NBC that the general has agreed."

John Eisenhower said the report may have come out of conversations with Lodge, who quit as ambassador to South Viet Nam to aid Scranton's candidacy. "But I assure you," said Eisenhower, "it is not true."

Who Is He?

A mysterious phone call, a screeching crash—and Dr. Ben Casey suddenly is plunged deep into one of the most absorbing adventures of his medical career. In restoring his patient to health Ben must help unravel the dual identity of his patient. Watch for it in this newspaper, beginning—

MONDAY, JULY 6

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)— In the said that although President Johnson had declared Sunday PEACE TALK: Publicly and in private, Johnson administration officials have been talking lately of a readiness to "risk war" to keep the Communists from overrunning South Viet Nam and Laos.

Wednesday, Secretary of State Dean Rusk sought to balance this with some peace talk.

"Peace ought to be possible in Southeast Asia without any extension of the fighting," he said. "The first objective of our policy and our desire in Southeast Asia is to exploit that possibility."

Administration sources said an entirely erroneous impression had been created in some quarters that the United States is "hell-bent for war."

At his news conference Rusk

CRYSTAL BALL: President Francisco Orlich of Costa Rica has joined with President Johnson in urging the Organization of American States "to take meaningful steps" to resist Cuban-directed aggression in the Western Hemisphere.

And after this joint communique was issued Wednesday, Orlich ventured a prediction—that Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro will be overthrown by his own people "in a month, a year, two years."

"I know the Cubans very well," Orlich told newsmen. "They are very brave. Just wait."

JUST TALK John H. Glenn Jr., the first American to orbit the earth, has talked with space boss James Webb about returning to the space program, but nothing has been decided, a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Wednesday.

DON'T BE A FOOL!
What is the law in your state?
WHO ARE COMMON LAW WIVES?

"He has not been offered a job and he has not asked for a job," the spokesman said. He labeled untrue a report that the Marine lieutenant colonel would return as an adviser on the Apollo moon shot program.

Glenn took the space program early this year and set out to wrest the Democratic nomination from incumbent Stephen M. Young of Ohio. Glenn withdrew, however, when an inner ear ailment caused by a fall in his bathroom was slow to correct itself.

CALL GIRLS Sen. John J. Williams, Delaware Republican whose own investigation touched off the Senate inquiry into Bobby Baker's business deals, says he has no plans to look at the card files of an apparent call girl ring.

State's Attorney Arthur A. Marshall of Prince Georges County, Md., disclosed existence of the list last week and it was reported Williams planned to inspect it Monday.

Checks OUT: Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower checked out of Walter Reed Army Hospital Wednesday afternoon after undergoing one of his periodic examinations. He had checked in late Tuesday.

The hospital said there would be no medical report on the former president. Mrs. Eisenhower stayed overnight at the hospital with him.

ADJOURNMENT: Mike Mansfield, senate Democratic leader, said Wednesday it may be possible for Congress to complete the Democratic National Convention Aug. 24.

Earlier, Mansfield had said Congress probably would have to come back after the Democratic session.

Three Persons Injured In Landing Accident

NEW YORK (AP)—The landing gear broke off an American Airlines jet that veered from a runway after touching down at Kennedy Airport Wednesday night in a thunderstorm. Three persons were injured slightly.

A small fire in one of the four engines was put out quickly by firemen.

All the passengers—only five—slid to the ground on an escape rope. Two suffered rope burns of the hands and fingers. The Boeing 707-720 jet, Flight 64, from Los Angeles had made a stop at Philadelphia. The seven-member crew was from the Los Angeles area.

'Vernon Mona Lisa' To Be Put on Exhibit

SUMMIT, N.J. (AP)—A centuries old painting, possibly Leonardo da Vinci's copy of his original Mona Lisa, begins a journey today to Los Angeles.

The Vernon Mona Lisa, insured for $1.3 million, will be removed from a vault at the Summit Trust Co. and taken by armored truck to Newark Airport for a flight to California.

It is to be exhibited for three weeks beginning July 8 at the Otis Art Institute in Los Angeles.

Experts at the institute also will subject the painting to several tests to determine whether it is Da Vinci's work.

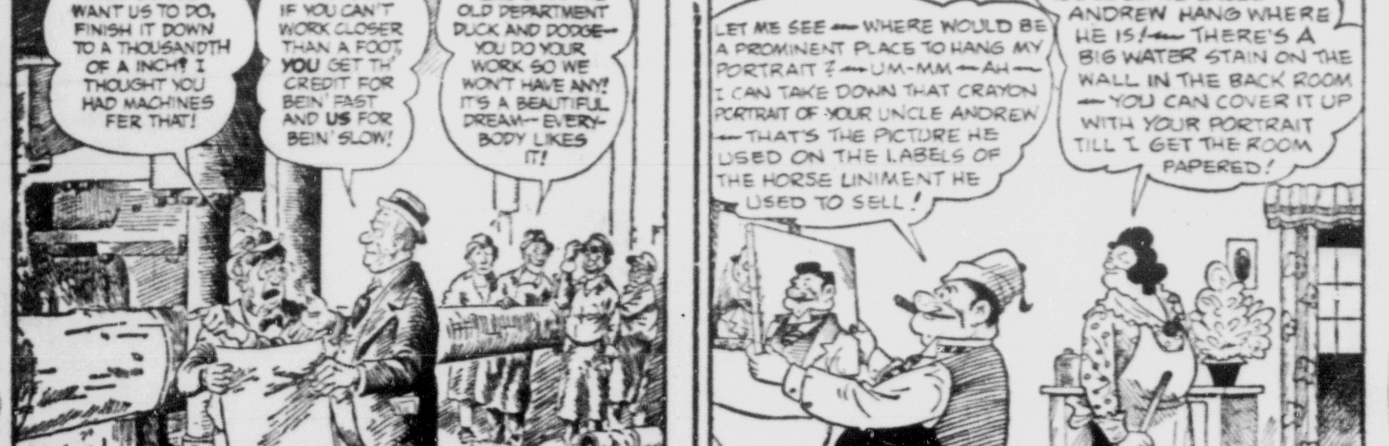

The painting is owned by heirs of William Henry Vernon, who brought it to the United States from France after the French Revolution.

The game of Irish handball was originated about 1,000 years ago and was played on a hard clay floor, with one wall of stone, at the front of the court.

Looking At Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER
© 1964 By the Chicago Tribune

HEDDA EXCHANGES QUIPS ON TV CELEBRITY GAME

HOLLYWOOD. — Being on Celebrity Game is not only fun, but you get to know the celebrities. Met Della Reese on one of the wildest shows they've ever taped. She was great and had Allan Sherman crying for his muddah before it was over. When Allan claimed women weren't the least bit creative, Della reminded him, "One of us created you." She's off to Atlantic City and Vegas to live up the nightclub circuit.

Learned that Paul Ford didn't start his acting career until he was 40. Had a wife and five kids (12 and under). Now he has 17 grandchildren and never stops working. He was Bilko's colonel for five years.

ALLAN SHERMAN boasted that he put Carol Lynley in show business.

"She was a fat little girl then," said he. Well, she certainly has slimmed down to a beautiful size 6. The quips flew so fast, Carol said it was like taking a trip to outer space.

Oscar Levant had a great week — had a temperature of 102 for five days. By the time the show ended, he'd been cooled completely.

Dana Wynter not only dressed us all, but was very funny. So was June Lockhart, who brought her mother here on vacation, along.

Jerry Lewis' picture, "The Patsy," went over great at the preview. Some of the cards read: "We think it's the best one he's ever done." He produced, directed and acted.

JOHN MYHERS writes that he and wife Joan hadn't gotten settled into their new home in the Hollywood hills when he had to leave for San Diego and "Sound of Music." But he's back now rehearsing with Janet Blair for their gala opening of the Valley Music Theater in Woodland hills. In September, John's wife, Cliff Arquette, Phil Ford and Mimi Hines will make a film, titled "Apple Valley." The theme is positive thinking, and they'll need it. The picture's budgeted at $150,000.

Yul Brynner's traveling light. When he comes here with his family for "Morituri," that's a World War II battleship, he'll bring only three servants, and has taken the marble mansion that Peter Sellers vacated.

COUNT JOSE DE LIMA was in town a couple of days talking to Debbie Reynolds about the gowns he's creating for her appearance in Las Vegas. He caught the preview of "Molly Brown" before taking off for San Francisco and a trip round the world.

Aldo Ray's back in action. Finished a Bob Hope special and went right into Bonanza. His two-months' crash diet left him forty pounds lighter. It was strictly protein; a thousand calories a day and no booze. His English wife's parents have forgiven him for spiriting their daughter away. Her mother came here for the birth of their baby (now 13 months old), and Aldo's hoping for a picture in England so the child's 90-year-old grandmother can have a look at him.

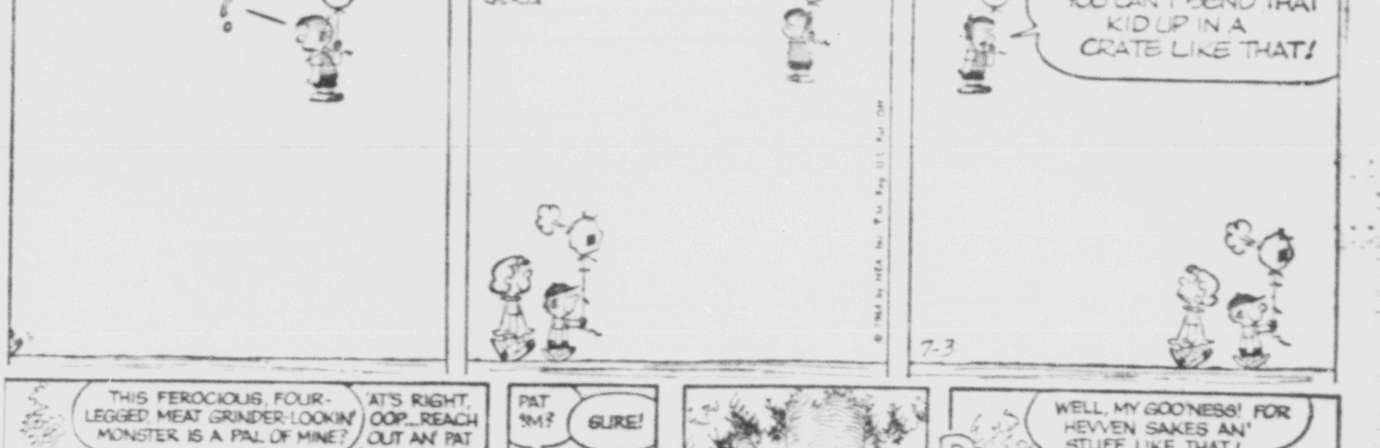

Look for lots of locally produced summer vegetables, especially tomatoes, green beans and lettuce.

IN MEMORIAM
In memory of our loved one, Jack Owen, who left us one year ago today.
The way he talked, the smile he wore,
And all the thousand things so dear,
We loved about him while he lived.
Haven't gone with him from here,
They're planted deep in memory's garden,
And watered daily with our tears.
To keep them ever fresh and vivid,
Through all the coming years.
We miss you so very much,
Ruby, Cammie & Don,
The Oliver Family,
The Titus Family.

Heiser Named Officer of Two Oil Companies

Election of F. W. "Ted" Heiser as vice president of Colorado Oil and Gas Corp., and of Colorado Oil Co., was announced here today by W. E. Mueller, president of Colorado Oil and Gas Corp.

Mueller also announced the retirement on July 1 of W. G. Tierney as vice president of Colorado Oil and Gas Corp. and of Colorado Oil Co.

Tierney also resigned as a member of the board of directors of Colorado Oil and Gas Corp. He will continue to act as a consultant to the company and thus extend an association with the oil industry which spans nearly four decades.

Heiser's entire business career has been spent in the oil industry. Since 1959 he has been manager of the Mid-Continent region for the Colorado Oil Co. which is the oil and gas exploration and production division of Colorado Oil and Gas Corp. The latter is a subsidiary of Colorado Interstate Gas Co., also headed by Mueller.

Tierney's association with the oil industry goes back to 1926 when he was employed in the Land Department of the American Petroleum Corporation. He remained there until 1948 when he joined the Derby Oil Company.

He served as executive vice president for a time and in 1952 was named president of the Derby Company. He continued in that post until Derby was merged into Colorado Oil and Gas Corporation in 1954 when he assumed vice presidential and board duties with the latter company.

Born in Kansas, Tierney was graduated from the University of Oklahoma. He and Mrs. Tierney will continue to make their home in Denver.

A native of Wisconsin, Heiser was graduated from the Missouri School of Mines, Rolla, Mo., in 1939. He was employed as an engineer by the Derby Oil Company. After military service, he resumed his career with Derby and served in various engineering and supervisory capacities until he was named assistant to the president in 1952.

When Derby was merged into Colorado Oil and Gas Corp., Heiser was named assistant manager of drilling and production. He held that post until named manager of the Mid-Continent region.

Ouster of State Banking Official Is Being Sought

DENVER (AP) — A Denver man is seeking the ouster of Frank E. Goldy as head of the Colorado Banking Commission.

The complaint was filed Wednesday with the Civil Service Commission by Robert Cohen.

Cohen said that Goldy had withheld a charter for an industrial bank from him and associates. He contends the action was wrongful.

Cohen also complained that Goldy discriminated against some licensees. He cited an extensive audit made of a finance company of which he is an official. Cohen said similar concerns were not given such close audits.

Cohen also said that Goldy had received gifts, some of them from license holders. He did not amplify the remark.

Gov. John A. Love said he would look into the charges.

The complaint was filed the day Goldy normally would have retired from state service because of age.

The governor told reporters of the complaint at the same time he announced that he had asked Goldy to stay on for another six months.

Goldy was not available for comment.

Khrushchev Urges Scandinavians To Be Neutral

By JOHN O. KOEHLER

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev made a public bid Tuesday night for Norway and Denmark to quit the North Atlantic alliance and join Finland and Sweden in a Nordic zone of neutrality.

An audience of 900-including government ministers, members of Parliament and diplomats—did not applaud Khrushchev's plea in an address at the politically independent Norwegian Institute of Foreign Affairs.

Although insisting that he was not offering advice to the Norwegian government and Parliament, Khrushchev urged adherence to the neutral policies of Sweden and Finland.

"We think it would be a contribution toward peace in the north if Norway and Denmark were not bound by military obligations toward states which have nothing to do with this area," the visiting premier said.

"We think that the participation of such countries as Norway and Denmark in the military plans of the West has been created through a mere set of circumstances."

"From our point of view, the most reliable guarantee for the security of such countries as Norway and Denmark, Sweden and Finland is a policy of neutrality which both sides would recognize — both the Western powers and the Socialist countries."

"Such a policy would be a kind of guarantee that the countries of northern Europe, in the case of a military conflict breaking out, would have safeguarded themselves against the devastating effects of modern weapons."

There has been no indication that Khrushchev has swayed either Denmark or Norway from their commitment to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Both governments made clear before Khrushchev embarked on his tour that they did not want to discuss their NATO alignment.

Khrushchev also took a shot at NATO maneuvers that ended in Norway a week before he sailed here after stops in Denmark and Sweden.

"The NATO generals who were playing at battle on the border with the Soviet Union itself even tried to stage the comedy of defending Norway against an attack from the East," he said.

"I would like to say this: We are not nervous over either the military provocations of these NATO generals or their bragging about their own experience in their use of weapons."

"As it says in the old proverb: Every fox brags about its own tail."

"Under full responsibility I may say that the Soviet Union does not have any underhanded plans whatsoever against Norway, as some people try to claim."

Khrushchev called on Norway to join the Soviet Union in its four-year-old race with the United States to discover oil deposits in Norway's Spitsbergen Archipelago.

The United States and the Soviet Union have staked claimstake two years.

Meanwhile Sertoma was scoring almost at will off the Elks' shaky defense. Mike Teague's single and a double by Clay Chambers accounted for the only run necessary in the bottom of the first. Four singles and three miscues opened the gates for six more runs in the second. The winners scored five

German Consulate Picketed by Rabbis

CHICAGO (AP)—The West German Consulate was picketed Wednesday by 12 members of the Rabbinic Alumni Association, protesting alleged help by German scientists in developing atomic and bacteriological weapons given the United Arab Republic.

Guenther C. Matz, West German consul general, said in a meeting with the association that the work of German technicians in Egypt is confined to the construction of conventional weapons and jet aircraft.

TV WORKERS STRIKE

LONDON (UPI)—A strike over wages crippled Britain's commercial television network Wednesday but officials hoped to keep the operation on the air by manning technicians' posts themselves and running old films.

Television broadcasts by the government-owned, non-commercial British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC) were not affected. The strike against Independent Television (ITV) took effect at midnight.

$25.1 Million in Bonds Approved In Denver Vote

DENVER (AP)—The issue proved Tuesday by Denver proposals for another $25.1 million in bonds city owners for civic improvements was approved. But the voters turned down proposals for another $20.8 million in city projects.

About 66,000 of the 96,000 eligible voters turned out for the special election. Only property owners were allowed to vote.

Among those projects approved was the most expensive of the 10 on the ballot — an $11,450,000 convention hall. The vote was 33,813 in favor, 31,256 against.

The project receiving the largest voter approval was construction of a new Denver General Hospital to cost $9 million. It received 42,185 favorable votes and 23,966 against.

Six of the 10 projects were approved.

Mayor Tom Curran called the election results "the dawn of a new era which will certainly mean a greater city for all of us." He said that "in spite of losing four of the projects, I am tremendously pleased and proud."

Other projects approved, and the vote (for-against):

Flood control program for Harvard Gulch in southeast Denver, $2.3 million, 36,389-28,935.

Juvenile hall expansion, $730,000, 36,659-27,914.

Park improvements, $1 million, 32,940-30,794.

Street construction, $600,000, 39,769-24,836.

Curran said that the first work — to start next year — will be on the convention center complex, Harvard Gulch, parks and streets improvements and juvenile hall expansion.

The most resounding defeat was to a proposed $8 million for urban renewal projects. Denverites would have contributed $8 million, with the federal government giving $16 million. The vote was 29,344 in favor and 34,300 against.

Other projects defeated: $3 million city hall; $2 million city shops system, and a $7.8 million hall of justice.

Denver's City Council has pledged that the bonds will be paid off with revenue from city sales taxes.

Gen. Taylor Will Face Challenge In Viet Nam War

WASHINGTON (AP)—Amid military pomp, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor ends a battle-starred career as a soldier today to face perhaps his greatest challenge as U.S. ambassador to Communist-besieged South Viet Nam.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara arranged to confer still another award on Taylor, 62, who already wears more than 40 decorations speaking of valor and service on such hot war fronts as Normandy and Korea and such cold war fronts as Berlin.

The award: A third Oak Leaf Cluster in place of a fourth Distinguished Service Medal in recognition of his nearly two years as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The armed services mustered an artillery battery for a 19-gun salute and contingents from the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines and Coast Guard for a full honor retirement ceremony in front of the Pentagon.

President Johnson was scheduled to attend a later White House ceremony at which Taylor was to be sworn in as ambassador. The Senate approved his nomination Wednesday night by voice vote.

A soldier-diplomat who speaks seven languages, Taylor will fly to Viet Nam Saturday night to take over leadership of both the civilian and military efforts of the United States to drive the Communist guerrillas out of South Viet Nam.

This is Taylor's second retirement since his graduation from West Point 42 years ago.

In 1959, he retired as Army chief of staff, in a blaze of controversy over Eisenhower administration defense policies.

Taylor contended that the country's conventional forces — especially the Army — were being neglected dangerously in favor of strategic nuclear power.

Tshombe Asked To Help in New Congo Cabinet

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—President Joseph Kasavubu Wednesday asked former Katanga President Moise Tshombe to explore the possibility of a new government to end the Congo's political chaos. Radio Leopoldville announced.

The announcement stressed that Kasavubu did not ask Tshombe to become premier but said he was to contact the different Congolese factions about formation of a "dynamic and honest" government. Observers believed Tshombe eventually would become premier, however.

Premier Cyrille Adoula resigned Tuesday and was remaining on as a caretaker premier until new elections could be held and a new government formed. But anti-government revolts have broken out in four provinces and the situation was difficult and confused.

Some diplomatic observers believe Tshombe is the man most likely to be able to bring together the rival Congolese factions and avert total political chaos in the wake of Tuesday's final United Nations troop withdrawal and Adoula's resignation.

When Kennedy tapped Taylor for chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff nearly two years ago there were misgivings in the upper echelons of the other services, particularly the Air Force. However, the military chiefs under Taylor have worked with a minimum of friction.

It is known that Taylor would have been named to a second two-year term as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff if an imperative need hadn't arisen for a man of stature to replace ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. in Saigon.

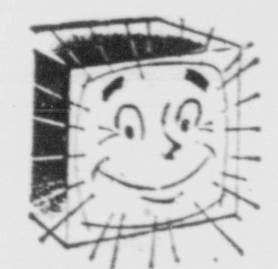

One of Taylor's proteges, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, is replacing Taylor as chairman after a tour of Army chiefs of staff.
